in memoriam
aaron m. quinn
june 10, 1967-july 24, 1983

Aaron Quinn was a young, caring, and thoughtful youth. His outgoing personality was easily seen by his many friends. His concern for others brought him the respect of his friends, and his thoughtfulness made him a memorable figure in all the lives he touched.

I will never forget the early spring day when Aaron and I went running together during track season. We had to run six miles this particular day. The wind made the day extremely cold, so cold that we didn't think we were going to make it. We started out running with ten other teammates, but, because we weren't really that good at running, we lost sight of them rather quickly. During this long run, we started talking about issues important to both of us. Aaron was interested in politics and religion at this time. He was intrigued with these topics almost to obsession. We finished our run an hour after we had started. Our legs were red and we had lost the feeling in our faces. We walked into the team room, and all the other runners had either left or were leaving. When they saw us they started to laugh and told us that they had turned off about ten minutes into the run. We had run the whole course! In the end, however, the run wasn't that important. What was important was that Aaron and I really got to know each other. And, I will never forget him.

As high school students, we are full of youth and full of life itself. We never fully realize the presence or the power of death. At this time in our lives, life seems endless, when in reality life is finite. Death is like a thief whose booty is life. The thief comes quickly and quietly and unexpectedly. Life, no matter how precious it is, can slip away so easily.

Death came on July 24, 1983, and stole the life of Aaron Quinn in a tragic automobile accident. It stole his great potential and promise. It stole a friend and classmate. He will never be forgotten.

Written by James Fenimore.

Have you ever walked down the hall of B building and had one of your teachers affectionately call you a "knucklehead?" Did you hear about the group of students who went to Italy to experience the ruins and the museums? Were you aware that the B.H.S. Latin Club placed second in Latin Day at the University of Vermont? With these questions, your mind should immediately associate these events with one special teacher here at Burlington High School. This person shows true commitment and honest dedication to her students and her subject matter. She is always willing to do that little extra, to go beyond her mere responsibilities as a teacher, leader, and friend. She never talks down to students; rather she deals with students at their own level. She is friendly, humorous, energetic, and caring. It is because of these exemplary qualities that we are proud to dedicate this, the 1985 Oread, to "Lainey," Mrs. Elaine Dates, a truly dedicated teacher.

Best wishes to the Graduating Class of 1985. As a class you have established an admirable record of achievement during your four years at BHS. It is our hope that this experience has prepared you well for the challenges which the future will bring. May each of you achieve those individual goals and aspirations which will enable you to put your name "UP IN LIGHTS" on your personal marquees!

To the Graduates of 1985:

A visual journey through the pages of the 1985 OREAD should justifiably bring feelings of pride and achievement to each of you. For here — recorded UP IN LIGHTS for all to see — are the many successes which characterized the final year of your high school education. Here too is recorded your graduation — tangible evidence of the success of your study, hard work and planning over the past 12 years.

It's important to see between the events captured in your senior yearbook in order to realize that they do not merely speak to the conclusion of your life as a student, but more importantly to the beginning of your life as an adult in an adult world. The new status you now assume brings with it many rights and privileges. But with it also come many awesome responsibilities and demands. That can be a frightening thought, particularly when you realize that the world you are inheriting is not perfect, complete, or static.

Your successes, blazoned UP IN LIGHTS throughout these pages, demonstrate that you have many strengths as you move into an uncertain future. You have youth, vitality, the resilience to bounce back from temporary defeats. And you have your diplomas — proof that the past 12 years have prepared you to accept those responsibilities and meet those demands which will challenge you in the future. It is my hope that each of you will grab hold of that tomorrow confidently, using what you have learned in the past to build a bright and shining tomorrow.

On behalf of the faculty and the Administration, I extend to the Class of 1985 our best wishes for a life of happiness and success. I feel fortunate to have had the opportunity to meet you prior to your graduation. Having observed the graduating classes at BHS for more than a decade, I believe that you have provided the impetus for BHS to continue to evolve into all it is capable of being as an exemplary school. The classes to come will benefit from your examples.

I wish all of you continued success in your life's endeavors as you enter a new epoch. I am confident that the enthusiasm, idealism, friendship, knowledge and social skills you possess as the result of your experiences at BHS will serve you well in the years to come.

Have you ever met a French Southern Belle? Well if you know Virginia Avary (Dinda as she is affectionately called by her friends), then you have! Dinda was originally born in Georgia, but grew up in Switzerland. There, the weather is much like that of Vermont, and she enjoyed skiing in the Alps. Because she spoke only French in Switzerland, when she moved to Vermont after eighth grade, she had to learn English all over again. After Vermont, she moved to Alabama for a short time where she took advantage of the warm weather by swimming and waterskiing. She again came to Vermont, then returned to her birthplace of Georgia, where many of her friends and relatives are. Back once again to Vermont, Dinda is now settled, but for how long? Here she enjoys skiing, mostly at Smuggler's Notch, working as a volunteer veterinarian, and going out with the many friends that she has made.

Almost one-hundred Ironmen, Ironwomen, swimmers, cyclists, and runners from all over the Northeast congregated in September to participate in the "Second Annual Burlington Triathalon." Among these participants were three Burlington High School seniors: Ironman David Halley, and cyclists Charlie Irish and Steve Boraker.

Despite six foot swells along the North Beach waterfront and high winds, David completed the half-mile swim, twenty-three mile bicycle race, and the six and a half mile footrace in just over three hours, avoiding the hypothermia and exhaustion common to triathletes. David finished in the top ten in his age group.

Charlie and Steve cycled as members of three person relay teams to both complete the twenty-three mile bicycle leg in one hour, despite forty mile per hour headwinds throughout most of the race. Both cyclists placed in the top ten percent of finishing times in the bicycle race.

The Burlington Triathalon collected nearly thirteen thousand dollars this year to benefit the Vermont Special Olympics.

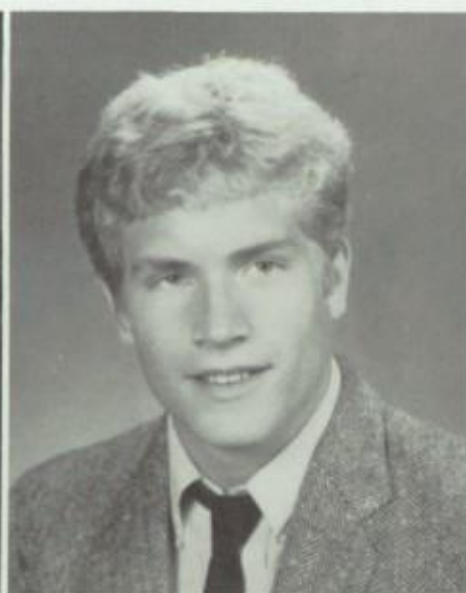

We hope to see more Burlington High School participants in the years to come.

You all know Aleck Colby, don't you? He's that mild-mannered guy in the blue B.H.S. jacket, a smile always on his face. You know, he's the trombone player in the school band. Ah yes, just a typical, ordinary American high school student.

But, in the dead of a winter night while in a large, icy, cavernous area where the temperature hovers around 38 degrees surrounded by others of his kind, Aleck turns into a bleacher creature. His face has been known to change color, and he rarely sits. His voice turns in to a loud, chanting yell and his arms are rarely at his sides.

What, you might ask, is a "bleacher creature?" A "bleacher creature" is a state of being. Manifested at B.H.S. hockey games bleacher creatures are a very select breed, and here are a few characteristics of one:

1. a bleacher creature must have a high tolerance for pain in the throat area;
2. hard core bleacher creatures have a unique dress code to follow — sunglasses, shorts, and blue and white jackets;
3. last of all, they must be able to think of new and innovative chants in the face of opposition.

The life of Aleck and the other bleacher creatures is constantly in persecution by high ranking authority figures. But since bleacher creatures have a higher intelligence level than most life forms, they are able to persevere through an antagonistic world bent on their destruction.

A bleacher creature's purpose in life is to bring enthusiasm and school spirit to the stands, to cheer on hockey players, and to ensure the superiority of Burlington High School in athletics.

When most of us say we're halfway through a good book, we mean we're half done the English required reading assignment.

When Chris Fleury says he's halfway through a good book, he means he's half done writing it.

Yes, it's true — at an age when most students have enough trouble reading a book, the outwardly mild Senior this year fired himself through not his first but his second full-scale novel. All this in addition to his participation in political campaigns, the two local newspapers for which he's been freelancing, not to mention winning the UVM Excellence in Writing Competition. Phew!

Under the working title, "A Most Peculiar Man," and based on the true story of a schizophrenic neighbor, Chris began writing in August, 1983, a scant two weeks before school began. Although school inconveniently took up a large chunk of his precious writing time, by that time a good part of the novel had been set up and Chris was obsessed.

Unfortunately, just as the novel was taking form, a writer's block the size of A building crash-landed on the author. Chris' obsessions at the time were shifted to the Jackson campaign, after which he simply could not get back to it. The manuscript gathered dust for much of 1984.

Finally, in December, Chris was asked to write for the Burlington Free Press. The fire returned: with the excitement of being asked to work for a major newspaper, his creative volcano was erupting all over. Symbolically enough, on January 1, 1985, he was back on the novel, working feverishly until it was ecstatically concluded the night before midterms.

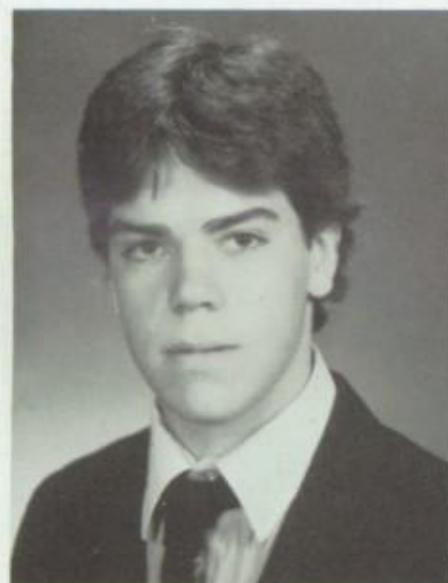

Now, in the aftermath, after puttering around the house for a while, Chris has found yet another story to tell. He is presently at work on a third novel. And by the way, when Chris Fleury's novels begin appearing in print, stop by and see him, as he'll be more than happy to autograph it for you.

But you'll have to wait, because he already promised me the first copy.

When I arrived in America, with my forty-nine friends from Ecuador, we went to New York and stayed there for four days with other young people from different countries. After that everyone went to their "home" in the United States.

I came from New York to Burlington with three people from other countries. They also stayed in Burlington.

During my first three months here, I had mixed feelings. It was good because my family was very nice and brought me to our home at the lake every week. However, I had few friends and every weekend was spent at our summer home.

My first day at BHS was very different for me than my high school in Ecuador, but now I like it alot because I have many friends. I have one special friend; she is a girl and is always very nice to me. Finally, I like the people at BHS alot. I like all of the new friends I have made at BHS and now I am very happy that I came here.

During my first two years in high school I was constantly carrying stacks of books, articles, and homework papers. I rapidly developed large forearm muscles, and my wardrobe began to stretch out of shape. After foolishly endangering my health by carrying these weights all the way home, I would throw myself on my bed. Next I would eat, relax, listen to some "Arlo Guthrie" or "Ten Years After" and watch the neglected heap of books take on all kinds of new forms and shapes. The next day I would punish myself again, dragging a 20 lb. load of articles and books back to school.

By my junior year I had matured and decided, No More Books! My shirts started to fit better again and my popeye image faded. Now, as a senior, I have developed an even easier method; I just jot down all the information on one page (or two if I have an extra spurt of energy), then I fold my paper, stuff it in my pocket and go home to listen to "Humble Pie" and "Country Joe McDonald and the Fish." My paper doesn't even get a glance.

It all began on June 17, 1984. School was out, my sister's wedding was over and done with — no more female-related entanglements. I was working construction at the time, and I've never seen one of those guys without one, so I figured, what the heck, it's time to grow a beard!

The summer was fantastic. I went to the Grateful Dead concert in July and some people mistook me for Bob Dylan. What a scintillating night that was!! It's strange how those guys who usually eat raw bear meat for breakfast stay out of your way when you have a beard. I guess they figure you keep a spare chainsaw in your duffel bag. It's the exact opposite with the fairer sex. They all believe you're a 22 year-old Dartmouth Medical School Graduate, until your best friend tells them you're making a career out of pumping gas.

Yeah, it was an enjoyable summer all right, and I had no reason to think the fun would end with the start of school. But, the morning of September 5, 1984, the age of the enlightenment began. By the end of that day, I saw the human race in a whole new light. They were no longer the kind, good-hearted, complimenting, subservient, boot-licking creatures I had come to know and adore so well, but a pack of mindless, back-stabbing, gut-wrenching, soul-stretching, hair-pulling, non-entities, with no hearts to be found. Several weeks passed and when I could endure the jeering and name-calling no longer, I performed the unspeakable deed — I shaved! I hoped they were satisfied, I was no longer a beer-drinking, woman-chasing animal. Instead, I was a milk-drinking, girl-watching school boy, again.

spotlight on . . . dora lawrence

Dora Lawrence never planned to be going to high school at the age of twenty seven!

As a single parent with three youngsters at home and bills and meals and sick kids to worry about, Dora goes from class to class as a full time B.H.S. student. Added to her already busy life are concerns about tests, book reports, and credits.

Originally a member of the class of 1975, Dora withdrew from school halfway through her senior year due to "lack of interest." Her family had moved to a small town outside Burlington, and she could not adjust to a new school. Tutoring did not work out, and so Dora "bummed around" for several months trying to find something to do with her life.

The job market for unskilled people without a diploma lacks exciting jobs, as Dora well knows. Sick of not having jobs, sick of being on welfare, and sick of no prospects for the future, Dora decided that she had only one alternative — to finish her education.

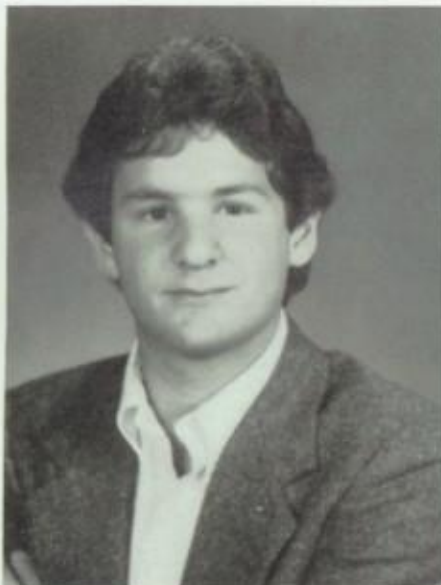

The first day of school was frightening, Dora explained, because she was concerned about how students and teachers would deal with the age difference. But, she was accepted for what she was — a student — by almost everyone. In fact, several students thought that she was just an older teenager, a situation which Dora found amusing and flattering.

Dora feels that the students have changed greatly in ten years. Young people are not afraid to talk about drugs and sex and other concerns with some teachers. She finds today's teenagers friendlier and more open. Also, the faculty seems younger and more willing to open up to kids.

Gone are the "hippie days" of the mid seventies. Bell bottoms, bandannas, and long hair on both boys and girls have been replaced by Levi's, Nikes, and shorter hair. Mixing fairly comfortably with the "younger generation," Dora looks forward to getting her Burlington High School diploma and moving on with her life.

Eugene Martin is a unique character. There are not many other hippie, cross-country ski team captains nicknamed "Captain Chaos." Eugene is not only good at juggling fire, but he also has a talent for causing trouble. Sneaking into Model U.N. was no problem. Eugene can also short circuit an entire building and is the proud owner of a copy of The Anarchist's Codebook. Eugene also owns a seemingly infinite collection of tie-dyed and "Grateful Dead" t-shirts. However he is no "dead head"; he likes other bands, such as "Hot Tuna" and, following in his brother's footsteps, the "Who."

Eugene is insane — when driving, as anyone who has ever been in his car knows, when fooling around with an axe in the ski locker room, or when just goofing off at a UVM movie. He doesn't let anything stop him!

It seems like I've been yelling at athletes half my life. Ever since 7th grade at St. Joseph School, I have been a cheerleader. As a result, I have learned to work as part of a team, and I have developed many close relationships throughout the years.

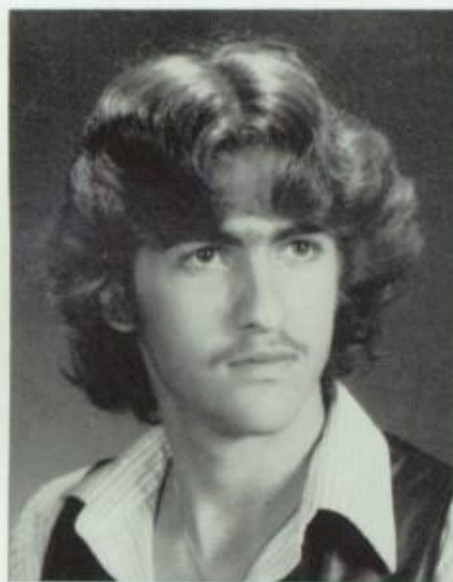

Most people don't realize how time consuming and physically demanding cheerleading can be. Practice starts in the middle of the summer and goes through football and basketball seasons, ending in March. We practice everyday, though sometimes practice is only twice a week, if we just have one game. A cheerleader must be a very limber person, and must be able to do the splits and many jumps.

Cheerleaders are the victims of many stereotypes. Everyone thinks that cheerleaders are snobs and dumb. This is not true at all. I have many friends and they are not just other cheerleaders or jocks. Also we all have to get good grades to stay on the squad.

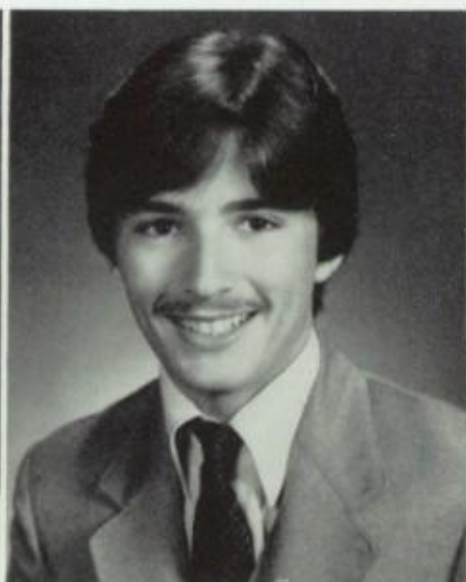

Cheerleading has many good points. We really do have alot of fun and we have had many experiences together that I know I will never forget!

spotlight on . . . j. p. preseault

Most high school students only dream of being in a band. However, J. P. Preseault had the motivation and determination to make this dream become a reality.

Although J.P. started playing the bass guitar in the 8th grade, it wasn't until "Blue Rock," that he participated in a band. The band took part in the 1983 "The Battle of the Bands" but did not win. "Blue Rock" later crumbled, but a year after, in the summer of 1984, "The Imaginates" were born. The only new member is keyboardist Steve "Shaggy" Fortner; the other members sprung from "Blue Rock": J.P., Jeff Wick, Chad Hollister, and John Berry. Chad was the originator of the name "the Imaginates," however, J.P. does not like it and hopes that through his influence it will soon change. He believes the name is unimportant and the music speaks for itself.

The "Imaginates" always get an enthusiastic response from their audience. They did well in the 1984 "Battle of the Bands," but unfortunately did not place, to the dismay of many. The band is now breaking into the Burlington circuit and has played for a B.H.S. dance, the South Burlington Christmas ball, and at Hunts. J.P. comments on the future: "We hope to keep playing steadily until the summer of 85. Then I'll be cruising to Europe and then John and I will be going away to college, where I hope to form another band."

spotlight on... jay shephard

Jay Shephard, as anyone who watches the local and school theater scene knows, is a very active person. A list of his accomplishments makes one wonder where he finds all the time. But, in spite of his busy calendar, Jay chose to add yet another activity during the Christmas vacation.

While many of us were marking the beginning of the New Year at parties, Jay Shephard was hard at work on what he was told by many was an impossible task. Anticipating the use of alcohol on New Year's Eve to be great in the Burlington area, Jay rounded up a group of students to provide sober transportation, the first project of what later became the local chapter of S.A.D.D. or Student Against Driving Drunk.

"I have been told that this is impossible and I'm still being told that," Jay said as he prepared for the hectic New Year's Eve. Although Jay got a late start in planning with less than two weeks to make all the arrangements, his indomitable energy was not dampened.

Jay was able to organize enough B.H.S. students to fill about half a dozen cars with teams of three, and by the time 3:00 a.m. rolled around, the students had chauffeured more than 50 intoxicated people to their homes. Headquarters was the home of senior Amy Flur, and the special forwarding hook-up to the Flur's telephone rang so much that Jay's recruits found themselves having to turn down many requests for rides.

Jay undertook such an ambitious project because he saw it as an opportunity for young people to do something positive for their community. He feels that the hotline demonstrated that "we're not all a bunch of crazy teenagers that drink a six pack and then go out on the road and kill someone." S.A.D.D. at B.H.S. according to Jay, is a "growing thing that hopefully will continue long after we are gone."

spotlight on... jason whitney

Jason Whitney definitely has the personality of an artist. He has no recollection of his first drawings. "I don't seem to be able to recall any drawings that I've done unless they have won a prize or something." When asked how long he's been drawing he replied, "Well, ever since I started."

His artwork takes no specific form, as his subject depends on his mood. He is as likely to do a contour drawing as he is to do a caricature, but he says, "I do tend to draw a lot of cartoons — I love to make people laugh!"

I asked Jason if he sees everything as a piece of potential artwork. He answered that art can't be created, but is an idea, and that everything contains art — "all you have to do is look."

Does the talent run in the family? Well, Jason's father is a poet, but as an artist Jason was a new addition to the family's talents. He says he admires Leonardo DaVinci for his genius even though most people that lived during that time thought DaVinci was crazy. Is he Jason's role model? Well, maybe, but so far Jason says he doesn't plan to make a career of his talent. We know Jason is a little crazy. Maybe we should wait to see if he gets famous before classifying him with DaVinci!

Article by Denise Schomody

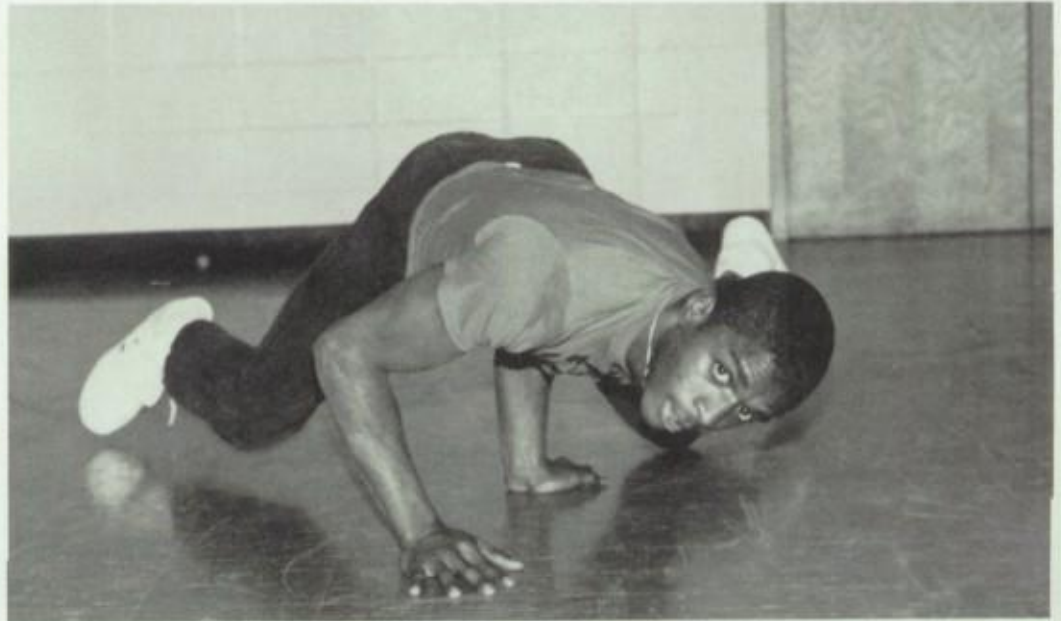

Have you ever wondered how or when breakdancing started, and why it's so popular today? Well, Breakdancing started in the seventies, inspired by Chuck Berry. It is based on a combination of jazz dancing, tap dancing, and modern dancing.

Breakdancing is something Sebastian Wilson is unusually good at. He taught himself by watching others breakdance; he has been breakdancing for over a year now. He dances with the "Main Street Breakers." They dance for money, and can make over $200 a gig. They also do commercials and benefits.

Sebastian himself likes to breakdance, but says it's like a sport — lots of work and sometimes pain. This doesn't bother Sebastian, as he has fun, gains fame, and earns a lot of money.

Sebastian has built a solid career for breakdancing; he has a manager and plans to go on dancing for a few more years. He also might be taking a trip to Yugoslavia. Good Luck to Sebastian and the "Main Street Breakers" on their careers!

We, Moelesleey and Ohwellanor, being insane leave the following: our bodies to all the drooling underclassmen; to our teachers, we leave all our good excuses; to Mrs. Ford, we give thanks for all the passes; to Bill, we leave a 16 ounce, to Chip and Rosie, we leave many memories of the love machine. Remember this: WE'RE TOUGH, WE'RE GOOD-LOOKING, AND WE'RE GONNA BE THERE!

I, Captain Khaos, the Euge, possessing an oxidized mind and overskied body, declare this as my last will and testament. To Mark and the ski team: good luck and Kevin's dead body. To Billy, George and the cross country team: Luck in '86. To the track team: Sun, fun, and water balloons. Many, many thanks to Coach Pecor, Fletch, Hag, Quinny, Tony, Mr. Mazuzan, and all my teachers. Thanks, good luck, goodbye.

I, Julie Daly, wish to say thanks to all my teachers and friends who made my senior year special. I leave the following: to Mrs. Kousen, the BHS Playbook; to my sweetheart J.R., an "I LOVE YOU" (forever too!) — thanks for all the love you gave me that made my senior year extra special!

I, Chris Graeter, being the great person I am, leave the following: to Ed, nothing! To Mike P., the memory of getting my head stuck in his window. To Billy P., my steroid pills. Heather, I leave my letterman's jacket. To Michelle and Tammy, I leave my body for medical experiments. To Mike M. good luck in the Navy. To CMD Slaughter, I leave Jay. To B.H.S. I leave, forever.

I, Shelley Reno, being of sound mind and anorexic body, leave all my lunches to Mr. Kent. To Hugh, a cup of coffee and a smile. To Ween, my dearest friend, much thanks. To my baby brother, Scott, my empty wallet and to my Booboo, all my love.

I, Randy Varin, being of sound mind, leave to the lunchroom crew nothing, except for Polly who I leave the Twinkies. And to my brother and sister, I leave.

I, Lynn Oldfield, leave: Michele Bernier — Florida, band, and many "adventures"; Mickey Mood, I leave my charm; Chien Nguyen — all of the memories — good and bad; to Jill, my loving sister, I leave my special red chair. Harry, keep out of trouble. To Jason Curry, you made my senior year a very special year. You were always there when I needed you. I love you.

I, Ian, wish all my friends Good Luck! And to everyone the ability to succeed in life! Good luck, Brian! Thanks most of all to "Breaker"! I love you, Sherry Annel!

I, Steve, being of stubborn mind leave Jay my Keyring to be used at his discretion. Ship, get a job! Hey Deano, you can finally rest easily; I won't be back. Mrs. Kalinoski and Mr. Mullen: it's been fun. Thank you both. Bean and Buckwheat: see you both in Australia. Pricer, get a guy! Well, guys, it's been fun ... See Ya!

I, a Covered Foot, do happily and ecstatically leave. To Clairsey and Little Sprout, I leave my English class; may it do to you what it did to me. To Johnny cakes and D.J., I leave the shadow of my magnificence. To Miss Allard and Monsieur Barre, a giant rubber chicken complete with lab instructions. Special thanks to (the bizarre) Mrs. Nem. Furry wallpaper lives!

I hereby leave all my love to Brian; to Cammie I leave Steve; to Mr. Gibson I leave good memories, and to D.S. I leave a big "Thanks!" Love, Lynn.

I, Amy Sue, leave the following: To Jamie, a million "I've really got to go" phone calls and a wonderful friendship. Keep on smiling and call me anytime. To Gahan, remember all the memories of the past, thoughts of today, and hopes for tomorrow. I love ya lots! To Denise, Janna, Michael, Steve and Katie, I leave you with the thought "What is remembered is up to you!" Good Luck next year!

I, Tim, leave my used Copenhagen tins to Mr. Calcagni, and to Mr. Pecor I leave 1 dozen chapsticks and both a job offer for stock boys. And a free chew to everyone!

I, John Messier, Leave To everyone, I've got to "RAMBLE ON!" "Now's the time, the time is Now ...!" Toodle-loof Adios amigos!

I, Flake, leave all my bloopers to Mr. Hobart, my neat penmanship to Mrs. Schultz, and my senioritis to Kristen R. To all Jesse Jackson supporters, I leave my heart in San Francisco.

I, Jay Shephard, being of sounding mind and survived body to hereby leave the following: for Jason, a Hawaiian flower garden and a roll of string; for Skippy, a "bee" and a "key." Thank yous go to Miss O'Brien; to Mrs. Kalinoski for cultivating my arrogant liberalism and to Mr. Gibson — for keeping me out of trouble; and to Dee — thanx a lot "sis"; lastly of all the lovely girls in the world, I leave my number and an open invitation.

I, Janna, do hereby leave the following: eggs at 4:00 a.m. and "sometimes you do"; "the moose amazing ...?"; Blondie and Bean, I love you guys; Heather you're great; Mr. Gib., lots of hugs, kisses and the first in our chronicles Life According to Tom and Janna ... keep in touch! Mr. P. and Miss O'Brien, thanks; Lee and Skip, you're the best! I'll miss you all!

I, Amy Wutka, being of sound mind and tan body do hereby leave my following few possessions: To Sharon Roberts, my mini-condo and the moose; to Chip, best wishes from Mickey Rat; to Gretchen Wagner, my beloved flugglenet; and to Lynn Schleede, a prom date. To all my friends, Good Luck!!

I, Melissa Willis, hereby leave all my absences to Mrs. Kousen, who so painstakingly tried to instill punctuality in my soul; and I leave my picnic basket on the sunny beach for Mr. Gibson's lunch break during his hard working hours. C'est la vie!

To Abe, I leave our Scott. Stay mean maama jamma and bad to the bababone! Oh yea! Keep those shoes out of the locker! Hasn't it had enough abuse? Sally

I, Michelle G., leave to Shelly F. the switchboard — keep Pearl on her toes! To Michelle: the best of luck in your next two years. To my junior friends: Good Luck, and have fun! Last but not least, I leave to Billy Payne the best of luck and many thanks for making my high school years terrific. Thanks Billy — I love you!

I, Ann Hennessey, being of observant mind and respected body, do hereby bequeath all my gratitude to those who made my four years all at BHS what they were. Most importantly: Miss Tabor, thanks for the best year of history I've ever had; Mr. Kent, thanks for the D — (All I needed was the credit); and Dan Kaufman, thanks for just being — the best of luck to you.

I, Erbis McDougle, being of sound mind and muscular body, hereby leave to shy, eggnog and new shins; to my gooder buddy dear, WAH-WAH; to Gretch, locker #3 and the prom scheduled on a non-meet day; to Mr. P. green M&M's; to Moosey, PDQ, PXR and all my love to Spunk, a 62 400; to Mr. Gibson, an English horn; to Ms. Allard, prune juice; to Mr. Barry, all of my PLANARIA; and to my bro, the ability to grunt, all the girls at BHS, and 2 more years!

I, Spent, an adolescent of relentless endeavor bequeath nothing to everyone. If no one cares, surely someone will. Anyone knows no one cares, but no one changes. Bestow something to someone for someone always wants something. But anyone will rage if they don't acquire anything or something. Someone always ponders; they have everything, when actually everyone has nothing if they don't give anything to someone. So I leave everyone to everything. Farewell! Godspeed

I, John Danehey, hereby declare the end of the first Danehey dynasty, starting with Agnes, and continuing with Chuck, Mary, Patty, and finally ending with myself. This period lasted for fourteen years and how good it was! We leave to the students of BHS a tradition. We also want to thank the teachers for their guidance and help. Finally, I leave the Varsity Club to the underclassmen and wish the best of luck to the basketball team next year.

I, first and foremost, leave to Dulcibello, Mr. P. in basketball season, Coke canisters and no pops. May you perfect the under-the-table-dive-roll. To Zana Crazner, I say thanks for the great times as twins. May both of us get married and have an affair with Matt or at least MMCF. Last but certainly not least, I say to Ursie — live for a long list and keep me informed! Tschuss Welt.

I, Gladys, hereby leave the following: for Bob, a six-pack of sausages; for MJ, enough toony jokes to go on tour; for Sprout, I leave the words a, an, the, but, or, nor, for, and yet, because they are provided free; for Legs, a good tan; for Bird, a 45 of "State of Shock"; for Wimpy, Cliff Notes to "Great Expectations"; for Darlene, I leave Deb.; for Deb., my Quiet Riot records; for Kris-Tin-Tin, my all-state scores; for Ron, clutter for her locker.

I, Rick, being of sound system, leave Toomer jokes to Mike, and my air guitar pick to Ollie; to Wimp, "tap, tap, tap"; to Alex: "Blaze"; to Kristen Beetle; to Heather: Bug; to Mark, D.D.; to Sal, Swamp Thing; to Brian Hall, who left, I leave "Ebb"; to Ron, I leave the nature walk; to Kevin I say, McParty.

We, Cheryl and Marilyn, being of tall and short bodies, leave our loud mouths (and giggles) to another loudmouth, Karen Leggett; to Coach Moe Walsh, the memories of mods 7/8 conversations. To the cheerleading squad I, Cheryl, leave my "awesome flip," and to my sister, Lori, good luck with everything. I, Marilyn, leave to anyone lucky enough, the view of "Special K."

I, Barb, leave to Rosie, Caroline, Moly, Jaimie, Erina and Lee many great times. Even though we won't be together we will still go rudooodooing together. Lots of Luck!

We, Michele and Rachel, leave Denise all of our scopies, code names, and many good times. We also leave to the cheerleaders Michele's ability to shake but always pull through and Rachel's ability to climb to the top. Well, C.C. we hope you find someone new to give your dirty looks to. To the entire student body, we leave Mom O'Brien. Love ya!

I, E.R., being of superior mind and body, leave to W.B. my court sense and the bus system. Who'll get lucky next year? To the crew: Dru B, Fred, McSkwink, Tonguer, and Frito: you deserve the best because you are the best! Remember Peceras and Senioritis? To the Bud Bros: Keep surviving; you've got a lot of class. I love you all. To D.B.: what more can I leave you? To Burlington, I leave but a memory. To California, I surrender.

I, Molly (Linguinni), leave the following: to the Bud-bros, a big thanks for all the good times and good Buds! To Mooshe Tounguer, and Fred, the memories of partying, smiles, laughter, hugs and the best times of my life. I leave the 7/8 sex talks to the history books. To Rosie, I leave a lot of you. Know what for the next two years. To Mrs. Nem., Thanks for Everything. LATER!

I, Heather Jenkins, being of unstable mind and reasonable body, leave to Sharp 2 years of hockey stats., the field hockey team another chance at the playoffs, and, to all the athletic girls of '86: too bad we didn't get a chance to beat you in a football game. J.D. and Mrs. Nem., thanks for your support. To the underclassmen, don't give up until you've been accepted to college.

I, being of dazed mind and battered body, leave no. 526 and lots of success to Sean. To Kate, I leave all of my luck and none of my laziness. Good luck to Soccer '86. This hack is gone: somebody needs to replace me. As for Baseball — four in a row? Carlos, good luck with J.S Thanks for 19, H. J.

I, Shorty (Moose) (Ugly), leave the following things in honor of my memory: to Bean, a fat white whale . . . and Razzles; to Jay, a wink and a hug; to Mouse, V.B.Z.'s by candlelight; to Luigi, a glow-in-the-dark stopwatch; to Lori, Blonde Kid, and "Dad" the best senior year; to Laine, R.P. and Ma Tabor, thanks — keep your spirit!!!, to Katie, the ABC game; and Michael, I leave knowing I'll be back.

I, "Wong," bequeath the following to the following: Jason, a rubber tree plant; Jamey, a little ng-nyangnya action, a bigger palm to put Brown into and a Honda with more pickup; to S.A., a little "breakin'" in Physics, Svenus, one more crisis week; B.C., a little snow and a chubby; and Jamie O., luck with M.H., you deserve it. Finally Bridget, I leave you extra homework and Maria the joy of watching you suffer.

I, Sara Miller, leave to the locker gang my thanks for the memories. Al, how can I thank you? To Markus, I give my love which neither time nor distance can change. Mr. McGrath a dozen! Gina — umbrellas! To T1, wonderful and weird memories. Tammy and Jon — "Bed's Too Big Without You!" There's no better group. Wish you all the best. HEY BABE, TAKE A WALK ON THE WILD SIDE!

We, Debra and Eric, hereby leave Burlington High School in the year 1985 with deepfelt gratitude and thanks to the teachers and faculty who have helped us the most. Special thanks to Mr. Pfingst and Mr. Gibson during the year of my graduation.

I, Denise, hereby leave to Mr. Gibson one "bittersweet" conversation at the cast party. Thanks for your smiles!! Also to Tom Toner: don't give up on our section; we need your help!! Gahan, I leave you some Withdrawal Tablets so you can have a fun senior year. (You deserve it!).

I, Ursula, leave Mr. Kent my purple Cambridge sweat-shirt; Mr. Calcagni my earring collection; Mrs. Kalinoski, the key to my Washington D.C. hotel room; Mr. Hobart, my video bloopers; and Mr. Donaghue, my peroxide locks. Eric, I wish you many "gnarly skateboard experiences," and I wish the entire junior class an "exciting" last year at B.H.S. Have Fun!

I am resplendent in divergence. For your help, I thank you, Urizel O Urizel. To the Mookows, a bottle of Johnny Walker Red. To Suth and Jamie, two cans of Fosters, and a deck of cards. Remember a day (the Davide). See Emily Play. Uncle Polly's Place was fun. So was Firenze. Roma too Thanks, Dan, Becky, and Christainn — It was a pretty good scene, man. D R ANTHONY C

I, D.D., being a quiet, reserved, and good-natured person, do hereby denounce any accusations brought against me by certain narrow-minded persons of Burlington. I am not a fascist, a Nazi, or a punk! To Laine, I leave my chronic complaining. To Mrs. G, a broken generic disk. To the Alpine team: "SKI TO DIE!" you bunch of Quagel bastards. To CMDR Slaughter, I leave J.Z. and 10 drained wops. Thanks for 3 great years full of memories and many words of wisdom. Mr. D. don't confuse me with the facts. "Veni Vidi Vici." Vobis Gratias Ago.

I, Spanks, leave Oly the B.S.D.C. the many nights riding around town looking for action, and collision insurance. To Bummer, give me a pinch for the road. To Baldy, my house is your house anytime and some wild car chases home. To Brownie, a loud, long "Hey." To Guy and Vail, let's pound a few before floor hockey. To next year's soccer team, you guys better go out and kick some butt.

I, leave my Bro, Paul, and My little sis, Lori, all of my headaches. Remember though, Keep your heads up high and strive for the things you want out of life!!! Love Ya, Mittal!

I, Babs, leave to Chip and Rosie my sincere wishes for many good times and good fights. You guys are a match made in Italy. Love ya' both.

I, Wendi LaBonte, being of questionable mind and body, hereby leave to the remainder of the cheerleaders, my saddle shoes. To Mrs. Cote, I leave my egg "Pierre." To my "little" brother, Wayne, I leave a wish for success and all my senior teachers. Lastly, to all my senior classmates and friends, I leave many happy memories!

We, Becky and Cathy, leave to Chrissy our wonderful teacher, Mr. Calcagni. To Mrs. Kousen goes all of our enthusiasm. To Scott, we leave our love and attention and payment for services rendered. Scott, I LOVE YOU! To Mary Beth, we leave your stereo. To Julie, we leave J.R. To Karen, we leave all of our problems.

I, Elaine Roy, leave ADAM Clongoli FACID FACERE FECI FACTUM to do with as he sees fit; to Mr. Sabourin, I leave the immortal words of Helen Reddy, "I AM WOMAN," to Kelly, Corinne, and Shelly, I leave my accounting books and all of my workbook drills: GOOD LUCK! To Miss Donahue, thanks for everything. To Lanie: Tibi Gratias.

I, Michael "KLAUS" McGargan, do leave to Mr. C. all my notes for Julius Caesar. To Leonard Parent, I leave my "Ruster Duster." To Uncle Roger, I leave my smoke grenade, and to Mr. Murray, I leave 60 cents in pennies for the freshmen. To Kelly, I leave my IRISH charisma and good looks. To Scott Russell, I leave my swastika collection. A Good-bye forever.

I, Jason Curry, Leave Jill Oldfield and Michele Bernier all our naked parties. To Mr. Pfingst I leave my hair. To my baby brother, Dan, I leave my old picture I.D. so you can vote, of course. To Dawn Faverty, I give back a year's supply of vitamin C. To Lynn, I leave a year of fun. To Seth a real car.

I, the great Pretender, to hereby leave the following: to Len, the Keys to the hall doors; to Dawn F., Kristin D., and Stacey S. a special feeling in my heart; to Chris Graeter, wild car rides; and to Mike M. I leave one million bad, distasteful jokes. And to all the underclassmen I say "Hang in there, You can make it!!" Farewell B.H.S.; thanks for the Memories.

I, James Newell, Sr., being of lame mind and deft body, do hereby submit my resignation as chairperson and president of LAL and SFFJ, respectively. I appoint Suth III for both of these honorable positions; give 'em heck! I leave Mrs. C. my probation papers and a lawsuit. To PF, I leave a tongue. I bequeath the library phone a swift sledgehammer. I submit the final conclusion of the Newell Dynasty of twenty years. Touche, Danehey! To Geoff, I leave my prunes, and to John I. Besteau, a new ankle. To M.A. and Mr. HAR, I owe an appreciative thanks. To M.A. Tab., I also leave a conservative. Name him "Chip." You're the best!

I, David Halley, being of overtaxed mind and under-taxed body, hereby leave the following: to Steve:

an A.A. membership card and some road apple brandy; to Brian, an unused scalpel; to Gahan, p. 593 in the A.P. book and Friday night memories; to Dawn, an "all you can eat meal" card; to Liza, good luck in the years to come; to Bean, the ability to make decisions. To all my friends and teachers, thanks for being there. Steve, Bean, Gahan, Amy, well, . . . nudge, nudge. Say no more.

Yo Bro, I, SOB, leave to you and the tykes a Budding two more years. Keep up the tradition. Shysty Chickens: You boys are gonna have to party on your own! Oh yeah? Be nasty fellas if you like, but just don't you get caught, ya hear? So long from the W.C. terrorists.

I, Mary, leave the following: to Laura, the sound of my earrings; to Meg, a chipster; to Gina, a certain UVM upstairs bathroom; to Marg, a story and a picture of three clowns; to George, a Filomena's pizza; to Dylan, boring driver's ed. movies; to Flanigan, all the bathrooms in Burlington; and to Suzy Q., all of my love.

I, Jamey McNamara, being of rested mind and tired legs, leave the following: to Jasper Kit, 500 ml of Ben and Jerry's creamsicle on a hot night in Roma; to "Italy Rome" Spafford, the presidency and a new alarm clock; to the FTD man, a huge wreath of flowers and a big neon racoon; to the Stallion, lots of running room because I know you take the bus; to poor Russ (Aim), love, kisses, and . . . some Oreos. Oh yea, to Ho-Mo, a gender.

I, David "TG Hammo" Hilberg, being of overstimulated mind and understimulated body, bequeath the following: to Mr. McGrath, reservations for a trireme to Crete; to Mr. Donoghue, a surrealistic globe; to Betty, a red beret so you don't get lost; to Kristin, a set of tennis lessons (but may you still score "love"). And, goodbye to BHS, where people go to the cafeteria to study and the library to chat. Let's cruise, Rick.

I, Jimbo the Flem, leave to Suthie a year's supply of librarians and napkins; to Rachel, a very cold ice cube and driving lessons; to my little sis, a hug and a kiss and my love; to my sibling, lots of luck! I hereby resign all radical leadership positions and relinquish my titles to Suthie III.

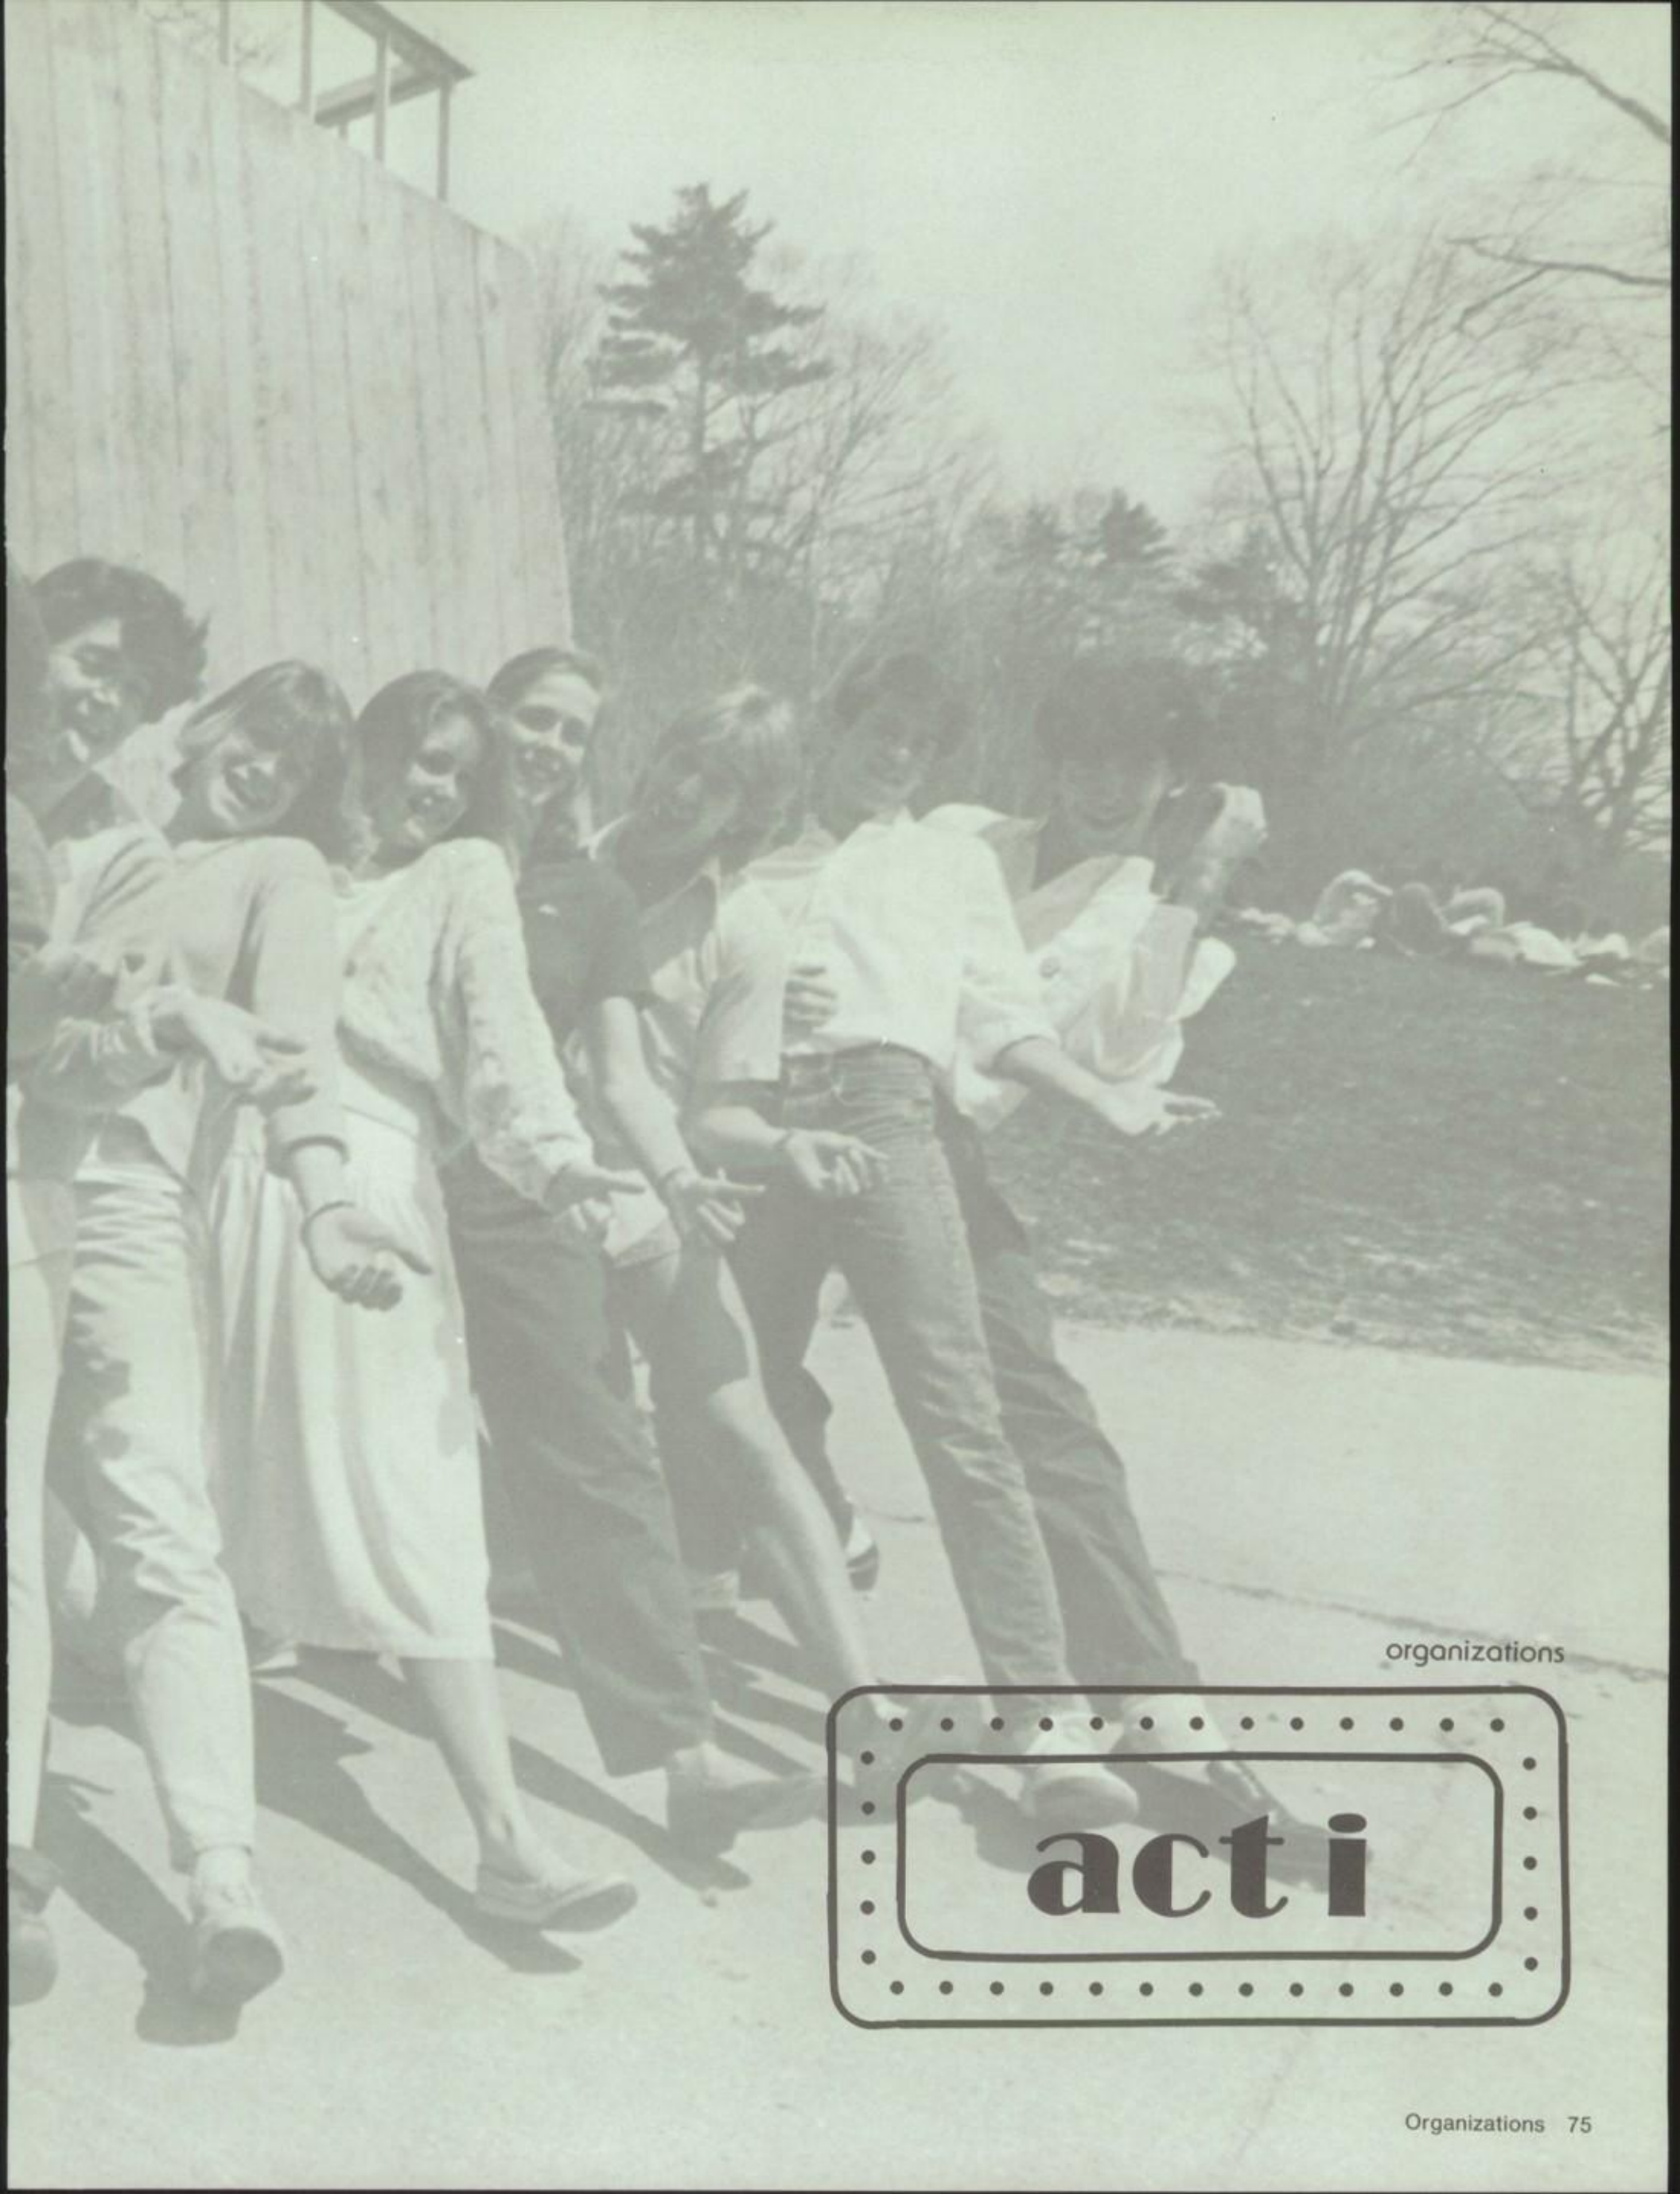

I, Dawn Michelle Allard, being of dizzy mind and busy body, hereby bequeath the following: 2 Michele, Mickey, and Kara, I require U 2 continue gossiping mods 3/4 about scandals that have not yet occurred; 2 Caroline, I leave my sarcasm and insults as well as athletic concentration; 2 Kristin, I leave the best of luck with a certain "big guy"; to Miley and the Madonna fan club, may U do videos 4 ever; 2 all the junior guys, I leave thought of what you could have had. Many appreciative thanks 2 all the senior guys. 2 the Bubble Bunch, thanks 4 many ir-reparable memories and adventures of which I will never 4get. Thanks to my former teachers. My success is inevitable as I am destined 4 4tune, so — worry not. 2 everyone I 4got, I'll memtion U at the Academy Awards. May you live to see the dawn.

I, Dinda, being of a southern species, do hereby leave to the bubble bunch everything and anything; le Grand Garcon, 60 University Terrace the scenic route from Montreal, 68. Believe it baby, buck and a —. To Lisa P., much gratitude for all the good times. Thanx to all at BHS for making my senior year an experience to remember.

I, Babyc's, leave the following to my Shorty — a super-band waistband with sporty argyle stripes, a pout, and these thoughts: When Love beckons, follow it, though its ways are hard and steep, for you will reap your just rewards; Love has no other desire but to fulfill itself, for Love is sufficient unto Love; remember . . . it took me four years and I have four more.

The BHS Register has been in circulation since the 1920's. In time, the format and the materials have changed dramatically. Yet the reason for its existence remains the same: to inform students, parents, and faculty of what's going on at Burlington High School.

This year was quite interesting. Aside from regular staff members, the journalism class and other students got in on the act of writing and putting out this school publication. The paper is printed right here by the printing class. This year, the Register has for the first time its own area, a room off the library for storage and production space. Under the direction of advisor, Mrs. Schultz, six issues were produced. All in all, it's been a very productive and most importantly, a fun year for the staff of the B.H.S. Register.

BHS Highlights triumphs again in its second smash year as Burlington High School's only video news program. Catalyzed by Lorna Cross, kept in motion by the superior Bill Hobart, and brought to life by the student body, Highlights ran weekly, featuring news stories from around the school as well as features of general interest and movie reviews. The highlights of Highlights this year could be caught Wednesday nights at 8 p.m. on public access television, when it and other local programs were aired on Channel 8. Congratulations to all who helped make Highlights a hit and kept it going for another great year.

The BHS Varsity Club

has finally been established as the Burlington Athletic Club. Athletic Director James Cardell and Assistant Principal Roger Blanchard, who are the advisors, are taking a second shot at making this club noteworthy and effective. Each varsity team had one representative, and next year there will be two from each team.

Our main goal for this year was to get the Varsity Club off the ground. We wrote our constitution and started fund raising. We also started the "Athlete of the Week" which recognized an outstanding varsity sport participant during each of the three seasons. This will continue next year for all sports.

Next year, the Varsity Club hopes to do more fund raising and to help with big sport events at B.H.S. We have had a good, growing first year, and many of the representatives are ready to return for a productive second year.

The Junior Steering

Committee would never panic! "So, it's at City Hall?" "Nor City Hall! Benes Inn." "Benes Inn closed down, stupid!" Those words were spoken by the group days before the prom tickets were scheduled to go on sale. It seemed as if we were running out of options quickly — even the cafeteria wasn't available. But did we panic? Nah, the Junior Steering Committee always keeps its cool. We made a few calls and managed to hook the Quarry Hill Club. The prom went wonderfully — the perfect location!

The Senior Steering Committee's first meetings were marked with similar problems, but we soon got rolling after much nagging from Katie and Mr. Blanchard. While Mr. B. spent most of his time on the phone (and on the intercom reminding us of meetings) the rest of us tried to make the best of the menu, changed the date of the banquet, argued about the various band choices, and searched every corner of Burlington for decorations. In the end, the Senior Banquet was a rock-ing success, and we all agreed that our efforts were not in vain.

The A.F.S. Club kicked off another exciting year with its annual citrus fruit sale. This was a great success and built up our much depleted funds. President Cindy Lasker planned two Café Internationals, and both came off well. At the Holiday Party, Cindy and Erin Rieley told the gathered club members about their exchange visits to Japan and Germany during the summer of 1984.

The Burlington chapter of the A.F.S. Club hosted Javier Gabela this year. From Ecuador, Javier stayed with the Flanagans for much of the year and finished up the year with the Rippens. Lars Jacobson, who stayed with the Goulets, and Maarit Heinniken, who stayed with the Purvees, were two other exchange students who joined the A.F.S. Club this year. At Christmas time, A.F.S. members collected pennies, nickels, dimes, and quarters for a Christmas present of long distance calls for our exchange students.

Valerie Webb, who was vice-president this year, left in April to spend a year in Thailand. During the summer of 1985, the Burlington club is sending Lee Lindberg to Thailand and Anäis Langley to France.

Goodbye to Javier, Lars, and Maarit. You will be missed.

The German Club revitalized itself this year. The biggest thing that happened was the soccer game in which we, with the help of the Spanish Club, lost to the plebian masses of the Latin Club. It was a fun evening under the lights. Other things that the German Club sponsored included a garage sale and various bake sales to raise money for the annual trip to Germany. The club officers were Erin Rieley, president; Becky Ward, vice-president; Laura Sharp, treasurer, Lauren Brownell, secretary; and Katya Cooke, fund raiser.

The BHS Latin Club, under the direction of advisor Elaine Dates sponsored a bacchanal complete with Roman costumes, participated in Latin Day at the University of Vermont. Several members toured Italy during April.

The Spanish Club, after an unfortunate defeat in the annual soccer game under the lights against the Latin Club, was faced with the ultimate obstacle — recovery. Apparently whatever we tried wasn't very successful, and the club lapsed into inactivity. The club does have promising plans for the future, including events that would rival their seemingly indomitable adversary, the Latin Club. Next year's article will tell all! ¡Hasta la vista!

"We believe in music" is the theme oft repeated in the depths of A Building where Mr. Patrick resides. Here he masterminds singlehandedly the Music Department which consists of four groups — the band, chorus, orchestra, and madrigals. Mr. Patrick, of course, is the director.

The band, somewhere around 100 people, rehearses every morning during first period. We work on pieces for two school concerts, one just before the holidays and one in the spring. We also play during the football and basketball season and march in at least one parade a year on Memorial Day. At other various times during the school year we are participating in fund raisers, auditioning, practicing, and hosting or visiting during exchange concerts. We keep pretty busy; our active life is one of the better kept secrets around B.H.S.

Chorus is similar, except that there are three rehearsals a day for three different groups of people with many different schedules. The chorus members unite for concerts. It should be noted here that both band and chorus may not be structured along the lines of a "regular class," but both are considered to be "regular." Attendance is required for all and credit is given. A member receives a grade according to how well he or she knows the music, how hard one tries, and how one behaves during practice.

An a cappella singing group, the Madrigals is an extra-curricular activity for talented, accomplished vocal musicians. There are usually sixteen participants chosen by audition. The Madrigals sing at school concerts, but they are primarily involved at activities outside school — clubs, churches, nursing homes, or wherever they are requested to sing. Christmas is the busiest time of year for members of the Madrigals.

The orchestra is halfway between a class and an extracurricular activity. The group meets after school, but its members receive a grade and half a credit for their efforts. They play for the two concerts and provide the orchestra for the annual school musical.

All of these groups are headed by the indomitable Mr. Patrick, a friend to all who goes the extra mile for his students. Thanks largely to his singular and unheralded efforts, we have a great Music Department. Thanks, Mr. P.!

Boys' State for one week "Ugh! I've gotta get out of here," were my thoughts the first day as I settled into my room at Norwich University. It was hot and muggy on the Norwich campus that day. I was tired and, frankly, very skeptical of the whole deal. I would rather have been a hundred different places. Joining me from Burlington High School for this week of fun and learning were Gary Dupont, Sebastian Wilson, Chris Fleury, Michael Lee, and Charlie Irish.

I got settled onto my floor very shortly and the masterplan of how this model state government ran was unveiled to all of us Boys' Staters at dinner. "Hey," I thought, "this doesn't sound that bad."

Anyway, to sum it all up, Boys' State was one of the "funner" experiences I've been lucky enough to participate in. More than the learning experience, which is certainly educational and beneficial, Boys' State is fun because you meet so many people from schools ranging from Bennington to Newport.

Because Boys' State is a model state government, everybody participates. From our group we had three state senators (Charlie, Sab, Mike), two house representatives (Sean, Gary) and a gubernatorial candidate in Chris Fleury.

My last thoughts as I was packing up to leave Norwich were that I didn't want to leave.

Girls' State 1984 was an enjoyable and memorable experience for all involved. It provided a challenge and an opportunity to expand knowledge about the processes of government. Arriving at Vermont college in Montpelier on a hot June day, the delegates from B.H.S., Eleanor DeLisa, Amy Flur, Denise Schomody, Amy Wutka, Kendy Austin, and Alice Goodridge, spent a week forming mock towns and organizing a governing body. Throughout the week, we campaigned, displayed patriotism, and formed lasting friendships. Each girl participated in some aspect of Girls' State, no matter how slight the job seemed. Denise, Amy, and Alice made a strong bid for Lieutenant Governor, Governor, and Attorney General, respectively. We'll never forget Eleanor "Enthusiasm, powdered scrambled eggs," "With a name like Smucker she's got to be good," marching single file, the Girls' State-Boys' State dance (guys at last!), the knock-out fights for the showers, and the crazy pranks. Girls' State is a rewarding experience that stays with a Girls' Stater long after the week is over.

The Library League, a relatively new organization here at B.H.S., was formed in 1983 to assist in making students in the school more aware of their library. Its further goal is to make the library better by discouraging the loss of reference materials and other resources. In the beginning of this school year, the Library League held a book sale to help raise money for a new security system. In January, the system was installed near the entrance to the library.

In May, the library was the recipient of the gift of an entire, complete collection of Life magazine, dating from the first issue in 1936 to the last issue in 1972. The Library League assisted in the dedication of the collection in the newly renovated conference room.

Altogether, the Library League has had a productive two years. We as a group and individuals hope to make further steps to promote the school library.

The Warren Austin

Model U.N., a three day event held on the UVM campus, was again well represented by Burlington High School. We fielded delegates from West Germany, the Ukranian Soviet Socialist Republic, Cuba, and S.W.A.P.O. (the Southwest African People's Organization). The event is sponsored by the University's Model U.N. Club as a warm-up to their National College U.N. in New York.

We arrived Friday to get our rooms and settle in. We had a few hours before dinner, so Chris Morse and I went on a mission to Gaynes in search of rope and squirt guns. Once back at the Econo Lodge, we made a rope ladder and went to dinner. Later that night, we decided to go on a food run and lowered the ladder. As I got onto the ladder, someone below shouted "Hey, they're trying to get out! Get 'em." We pulled up the ladder and a few seconds later the fraternity guards rushed in. Needless to say, our plans changed. We ordered pizza instead.

We spent all day Saturday in our committees drafting and discussing resolutions. Each committee sent six or seven resolutions which had survived fierce battles to the General Assembly.

B.H.S. did well in the General Assembly on Sunday and our delegation, several severely drained individuals, headed home to reality and a long snooze.

The Business Club,

also known as the Future Business Leaders of America, was started again last year with very few active members. This year we picked up in strength. The active members made it possible to join the Future Business Leaders of America and go to the FBLA State Convention in Bennington. We are proud of our Business Club members who attended. This is the first time B.H.S. attended, and we brought back some awards.

To go to the FBLA Convention, we had to raise money. So, we sold things at Christmas and Easter, had bake sales, and even had a "Guess How Many" jelly bean contest. We had enough money left over after the convention, so that at the end of the year the club members went out to dinner at the Prime Factor.

The 1985 Business Club also participated in the March of Dimes walk-a-thon. At the end of the year we sponsored a Family Night Pot Luck dinner. Almost 200 students, family members, and faculty attended. Some very proud parents watched the students receive their awards.

The Green Mountain

Chapter of the National Honor Society at Burlington High School worked with the Special Ed kids to help beautify the school grounds by planting bulbs in the courtyard. In the spring, a lilac bush was planted as a memorial to John Wagner, a Special Ed student who had died unexpectedly this year. A plaque inscribed with the names of the six students to whom the memorial trees were dedicated was designed by the N.H.S. members. Members also served as tutors and guides for different functions throughout the year.

The induction ceremony was held this year on April 11 in the auditorium. Fifty-eight juniors and seniors became new members. N.H.S. President Steve Frankel hosted the ceremony. Both current principal Mr. Chartman and former principal Mr. Danyow addressed the new members. Musical selections were played by Roxann Russell and Maria Erb, followed by four speeches by N.H.S. members: Polly McHugh on Scholarship, John Danehey on Leadership, Steve Frankel on Character, and Jamey McNamara on Service. The ceremony helped to conclude a successful and productive year for the N.H.S. Many thanks are due to our advisors, Miss Joslyn and Miss Akins.

The BHS Drama Club?

What do we do all year? Well, we work, we play, we laugh, we cry, we train as athletes, and we strain our minds as rigorously as scholars. Then one day someone calls, "Lights, we're on!" and it's all worthwhile.

Our Drama Club utilizes, enhances, and teaches an incredible variety of talents. We have painters, builders, makeup artists, designers, managers, directors, actors, and actresses . . . the list goes on and on.

All of us graduating seniors have gotten much out of our drama experiences, but the grandest aspect is the people we all work with. They are the greatest! Miss O'Brien, Mr. Patrick, and Mrs. Kalinoski are the most vibrant, talented, warm human beings we could hope to work with (despite how much they fuss at us). The students are all fun, open, and helpful. It's been a wonderful year from the B.H.S. stage. Here's to many more!

The voice of the student body, that's the BHS Student Council. Often that voice is a yawn, since the group meets at 7:15 on Wednesday mornings. But it is here that issues of concern to students are discussed and put into motion. Dances, blood drawings, political efforts, Spirit Week, and other activities all start here. Through the quiet leadership of President Jamey McNamara and the good-natured direction of Advisor Jim Donoghue, the group had an effective, positive year.

The Math League is definitely for you if evaluating $\sin 36^\circ \cos 54^\circ$ over $\sin (2) 54^\circ \tan 36^\circ$ doesn't strike terror into your heart. The Math League meets four times a year with other schools in regional competitions in the categories of arithmetic, geometry, algebra, advanced math, and a combined effort known as "Team." The official meets are followed by the traditional "cookie run," in which B.H.S. always performs well. After this year's four meets, B.H.S. stayed in a solid second place for the year. Four team members, sophomore Katie Hill, juniors Dan Kaufman and Jeff Swiatek, and senior Polly McHugh, went on to triumph in the North-South Vermont competition. Kaufman and Swiatek went on to Penn State to compete in the American Regions Math League competition.

Next year's team will be augmented by a specialized math class pioneered by our advisor, Mr. Trono, and designed specifically for future Math League competitions.

For the second year in a row, the B.H.S. Math League remains an impressive third to none.

What is Close Up like?

It is an experience that is hard to describe unless you try it. Close Up is a most wonderful mixture of learning and fun. All packed into one exciting and busy week, Close Up activities range from defense seminars in the Pentagon to dinner at a pizza house where the waiters are dressed as rats. The long walks through miles of Capitol Hill corridors and the singing and dancing on the buses will never be forgotten by those of us fortunate enough to be a part of it all.

With Close Up comes a whole new vocabulary. Words such as follow-up, rebuttle, seminar, and committee hearing start miraculously appearing in everyone's speech, even after room check. Perhaps the oddest thing about Close Up, however, is its ability to let you actually learn and have fun at the same time. Does this seem impossible? If so, Close Up could convince you otherwise.

The ten of us who went to Washington, D.C., this year and our two appreciated advisors and teachers, Mrs. Kalinoski and Mr. Donoghue, will never forget our incredible Close Up week. It came and went too fast, but it also didn't fail to leave its imprint on all of us.

The NJROTC classroom, tucked away in the back recesses of A Building and not highly visible to students, kept us out of sight and out of mind — except one day a week when we wore our uniforms. Sporting fresh haircuts and wearing the uniform made us stick out like sore thumbs and often made us the target of much verbal abuse. Along with the uniform came many misconceptions and prejudices about the Naval Junior ROTC program.

Three years have come and gone very quickly. Three years ago this new course was offered at B.H.S. Never before has a new curriculum designed to meet the needs of some students been so publicized, so criticized, or so controversial. Many opposing arguments were raised. I was glad to hear other opinions about the program. The only problem was that the opinions being stated were just unreasonable, in my view. They were not based on the facts as we saw them. People didn't want to understand and learn what the program was all about. They just wanted it out of the school system. The odds were against us right from the start.

Our teachers, CMDR USN Ret. Jimmy Slaughter and Lt. CMDR USN Ret. Bill Ford also faced the prejudice and criticism. Of course, since they wore a uniform every day, they were often treated as totally different people. After a while, many teachers realized that they were like them — teachers. Along with their academic teaching ability came many years of experience in dealing with and leading people. This experience enabled them to give the outstanding advice, encouragement, and wisdom that helped many students. It is truly unfortunate that other B.H.S. students didn't have a chance to know them.

The Burlington unit participated in many school and civic activities. Our color guard marched in the Memorial Day parade and also opened football games, pep rallies, and basketball games. Our drill team competed with teams from all around New England. Despite the handicap of our inexperience, our team with much practice and dedication did very well. During our second year, a group of students traveled to Orlando, Florida, to attend a one week mini boot camp. Our second year also brought the flag detail that raised the flag in front of the school every morning in all kinds of Vermont weather. Jay Zajan, Jim Magoon, Melvin Hill, Kelly Medlar, Todd LaPlant, Mark Philbrook, Robert Sheldon are among those who voluntarily took on this task.

Despite the controversy and criticism, our unit was considered one of the sharpest and most active in New England. The Burlington unit was commended at our yearly inspection last year by the visiting area commander.

Six students have completed all three years of the NJROTC program: seniors Robert Dix, David Demers, Chris Graeter, Mike McGarghan, Jay Zajan, and junior Scott Rousell. The unit is being moved to Allentown, Pennsylvania. Hopefully it will be welcomed and more readily accepted there than it was here.

Publishing a 224 page book is an immense job, and it couldn't be done without the cooperation of many people. First thanks to the English teachers. The interruptions are innumerable but important; the encouragement is appreciated. Thanks to Assistant Principal Roger Blanchard who is always accommodating; thanks to Athletic Director Jim Cardell whose open office aids in a complete sport section. Also we appreciate the efforts of Paulette Florio and the Taylor Publishing Company, David Eaton and MacLean-Stevens Studios, and Dan Meiklejohn and National School Studios. The people at Bourilliers were helpful in searching down just the right art supplies, and the people at Vivid Color Labs in Winooski did a perfect job with a less than perfect color negative for the endsheet. Finally, a special "Three Cheers" goes to the staff of the Flynn Theater for saying yes and then helping to get the picture perfect. You all deserve to be "Up in Lights."

The 1985 Oread has captured many of the great moments in that part of your life that is at Burlington High School. This school year has been for many of us, a memorable year. Throughout these many months, many of our lives' greatest moments have taken place. We, the Oread staff, are happy that we could record all of this in the pages of your 1985 Oread.

In this book, the highlights of the year are Up in Lights for all to remember. I hope that you will cherish this book as much as I will. Over 40 students have spent a great deal of time preparing the Oread. Many have worked from August, 1984 to June, 1985. Their labors are greatly appreciated, and I'm sure they will feel rewarded as they open this book for the first time.

Now that the work is done, it's time to kick off your shoes, put up your feet, and allow the show to begin. This three-act play is about memories, and I'm sure you know at least one member in the Cast of Characters.

Total Immersion, the unique program for French students at B.H.S., held classes for the entire school year during mods 9/10 through 15/16 away from the school campus. In this separate environment where only French is spoken, much learning takes place. Under the leadership of teacher Betty Alexander, the subject matter, all in French, included French history, grammar, geography, literature, and cuisine. In March, the group hosted students from Bergerac, France, who visited for three weeks.

We arrived in Paris on April 21 at 8:00 a.m. We got an early start at making memories: David Hilberg getting lost at Notre Dame, endless stairs, Chez Stella, le Metro (the Paris subway), Versailles, and "Liberte, Egalite, et Choucroutte."

Paris was followed by a night in Amgoise followed by three weeks visiting our friends in Bergerac. We toured various historic places, went to school with the Bergerac hosts, and in general learned about the culture there. We returned to Paris on the train with the French Army and a ping pong/soccer team. What a memorable beginning to our voyage home.

Sadly, this year's Total Immersion class, officially T.I. XVII, was the last. Due to budget considerations and declining interest, the program will not be offered again. We are all glad we could be there: the end was memorable.

It was a nice experience to be an exchange student at Burlington High School. I really enjoyed my year here, and I got to know a lot of students, especially on the cross country and track teams. I really enjoyed running over here, and the running brought me places. I went to the New England meet in Rhode Island with the cross country team.

When I came to B.H.S. in September, I had a lot of trouble to speak English, and there were a few misunderstandings. I speak better now, and I have almost forgotten how to speak Danish. I have been here for about ten months, and I have seen a lot of different things. I have been to Washington, D.C., and Montreal. I have a lot to tell about back in Denmark. Thanks for putting up with me.

Lars Jacobsen

In the beginning of the year, everything was really new, but during my A.F.S. experience in the United States, especially here in Burlington, I have gotten a better idea of the people who live here. When I came to the United States, my English was poor, and I could not understand much that people told me. Now with the help that people gave me during this year, my English is better and better.

I really enjoyed B.H.S. I was a member of the A.F.S. Club, the Spanish Club, the soccer team, and the track team. Everything at B.H.S. was fun, and it was an experience I will never forget. Finally, I want to say thanks to people who made my A.F.S. experience in the United States so good. Special thanks to my close friends Ria, Shannon, Lars, Vince, and Michele.

"Ja" and "nein," yes and no. These were the only two German words that I knew before I took off for my A.F.S. summer in Germany last year. On my second day in the country, I felt so lost that I didn't think I could survive a whole summer. Fortunately my family, the Heulsmanns, could collectively speak enough English to help me feel comfortable and were patient enough to teach me their language.

Everyone I met put themselves out to make me feel welcome, resulting in many lasting friendships for me. My family took me traveling through the Northern half of Germany, to the Netherlands and Sweden. For the final two weeks of my summer, we stayed in Denmark at their summer house windsurfing and sailing. By the end of the summer, I could finally understand and speak German fairly well. I was so sad to leave my wonderful new family, but now I'm looking forward to seeing them again this summer. A.F.S. Germany became an unforgettable experience of a lifetime.

Living in Germany!

I couldn't believe it. I had been selected to spend two months living with an A.F.S. family in Europe. The first month was spent on vacation in Bavaria. I will never forget it. People there speak a loose dialect and dress like Hansel and Gretel. They are very proud. Munich was exciting, the villages beautiful. We spent the days sailboarding, exploring castles, museums, and going to concerts. I was sorry to leave this special part of Germany.

I was fortunate, however, to see the country from one end to the other as we traveled home to Lübeck. The city was a museum. I spent hours roaming the streets with my mother, Helga, who acted as my guide. Lübeck is found on the Baltic and the border to East Germany. We made special trips to "the wall" — strips of barren land with towers and barbed wire fences that divide the two nations. These images of the Iron Curtain, and the stories of friends who live beyond it made a strong impression on me.

I will never forget the summer of 1984. I hope to return to Germany some day to see my "family" and to relive the wonderful time they gave to me.

The rest of my stay was filled with my family taking me to temples and shrines, visiting other cities like Tokyo, Kyoto, Osaka, and Hiroshima, and going to festivals. One special trip was taken to the northern part of Japan. There I saw and participated in three famous festivals, the Kanto, Nembita, and Tanabata festivals.

The most difficult thing for me to learn was how to use chopsticks. Many times I was caught in embarrassing situations because I still didn't have the knack of it. But, by the end of my stay, it was like I was a pro. All in all, I had a summer which I will never forget.

another great year. We have combined the usual flood of activities with excitement of preparing for the biannual trip to Italy. For the first time ever, we beat the Spanish Club in our annual soccer game. This year facing a combined squad of the Spanish and German Clubs, we won a hard fought 3-2 game. The game and the Latin Club squad were organized by David Stephany and James Behnke. Later, we visited an exhibition of Greek vases at the Fleming Museum, and we went to Essex Junction High School to watch a rendition of Antigone with puppets. Many members took the National Latin Exam, and several came away with awards. Senior Polly McHugh won the CANE Essay Contest for the State of Vermont and went on to win the New England award. But the highlight of the year was Latin Day at UVM, where with a brilliantly conceived skit, Burlington won first place and the covered silver bowl for the first time in the history of Latin Day. Salvo pudore, the year has been a successful one for the Latin Club ab initio, ad finem.

This year the Music Department was especially busy. Besides Districts, All-State, New England, and All-Eastern Festivals and two school concerts, the band and the chorus performed for the elementary schools. The department raised enough money to have an exchange trip. In the early spring the Music Department from Madison, New Jersey visited B.H.S. They spent a day in Montreal as well as a day in the greater Burlington area. At our concert they performed separately and combined with our musicians. Later on, we went to Madison. Our hosts were great, as was our trip to New York City. To wind up the year, our own Mr. Patrick hosted the traditional music banquet for students and parents. Much fun was had as Mr. P. poked fun every senior as his farewell gift. It was a fun year!

team this year could be characterized as a group with a sense of humor. Whenever we were asked an obscure question in this modified game of Trivial Pursuit, the answer would more than likely be "Mark Spitz," whether we had been asked the capital of Italian Somalia or Emily Bronte's great uncle! But this didn't keep us from doing well. We beat Mt. Abraham, Oxbow, Essex, and Milton and made it all the way to the finals against Middlebury Union High School. Despite the excellent effort of seniors John Danehey, David Hilberg, and Steve Frankel and juniors Erica Perl and Bruce Parsons, we couldn't quite win this game, even though we were tied at halftime. Emily Joffe, who always seemed to be wide awake to those of us who stumbled in for 7:30 a.m. practices, contributed much to the team and participated in the game against Essex. Good luck next year, and thanks to our coach and advisor, John Cane.

Discrimination at B.H.S.

Are you prejudiced? Do you discriminate? Are these traits a part of your daily life at B.H.S.?

Prejudice and discrimination have the guise of many faces, some so subtle they pass unnoticed. Both are intricately wound in the high school social structure and are an inherent part of the culture of our world.

Too often discrimination is linked to words and thoughts like racism, sexism, and religious discrimination, and not considered in its more subtle terms. Consider for a minute your own past. Have you ever been consistently picked last in team sports? Have you continuously received the same grade(s) despite your efforts? Have you been badly treated in accordance to your height, weight, physical appeal, age, intellect, dress, name, nationality, neighborhood, or skin color? Have you been part of a group that is considered inferior by other groups? If you can answer yes, you have experienced the more common and subtle forms of discrimination. Moreover, have you contributed to this discrimination by judging others with the same criteria? Do you ignore the merits of others? Do you ignore or suppress the will to resist such discrimination in your own life?

Discrimination and prejudice at B.H.S. result from categorizing or differentiating the major groups and individuals here and making judgments based on those categorizations. This often leads to stereotypes. Taken to its extreme, people are chosen for a task, role, or job based on their sex, color, or dress and not on their abilities and qualifications for the position. As a result, often entire groups remain under-utilized or unemployed with little hope for change.

Discrimination affects us all in our daily life here at B.H.S. It is a means to suppress people from self-improvement and deny opportunities for advancement.

What can you do about it?

Work and the B.H.S. Student

Have you ever heard this from one of your friends: "Can't talk now. I've gotta go to work."

Many Burlington High School students hold part-time jobs. There are many reasons why these students have sought employment while still in high school. Some need the paycheck for spending money or recreation or new clothes, some save for college or trips abroad, and some for rent and the weekly groceries.

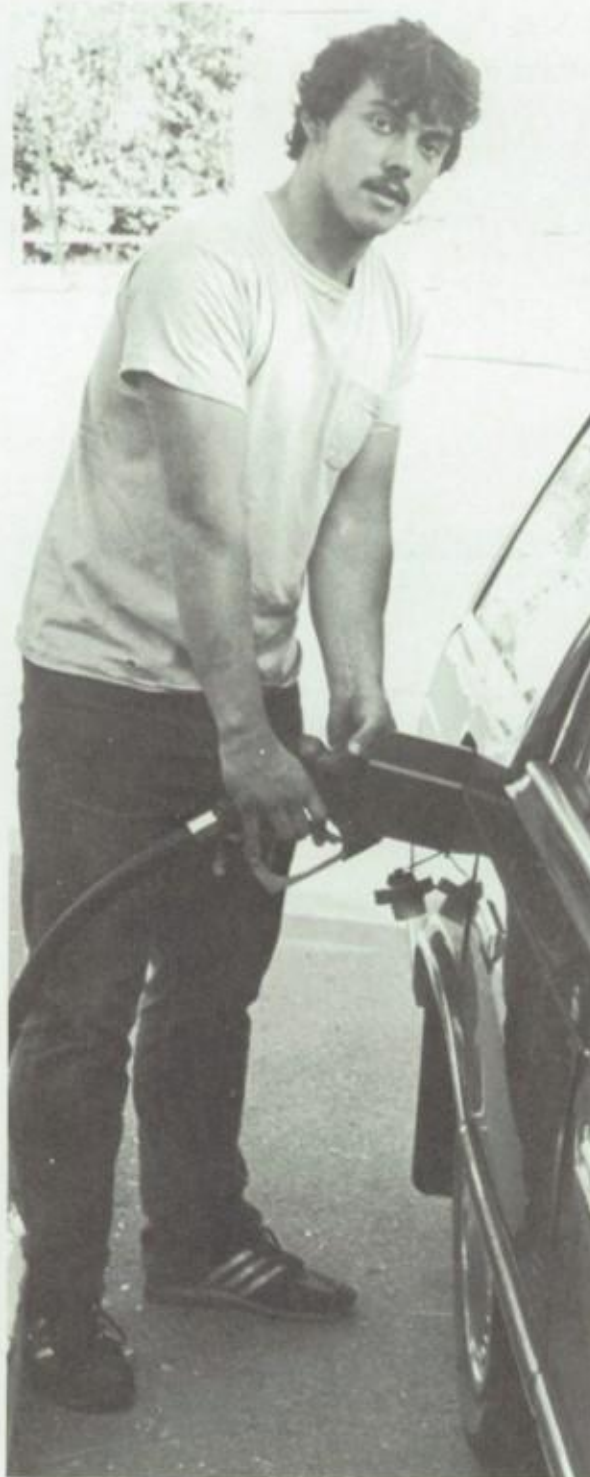

Although receiving that pay check is usually the primary reason for getting a job, working has other advantages. Having a job introduces a person to a whole new world outside school. One makes new friends, sees the business world first hand, and learns how to manage money. Conscientious students also learn about managing time where homework and school activities are concerned.

Many employers hire several high school students, who in turn recommend their friends. As a result, many Burlington area businesses have more than one B.H.S. student working for them. What could be more fun than working at the car wash or the hardware store of the PGC or McDonald's with friends?

I'd make this article longer, but I've got to go to work.

Hackey Means Never Say Sorry

Hackey sack is a sport in which an agile person juggles a little two inch bean bag using the feet, thighs, and knees. It is similar to a soccer player juggling a soccer ball, only the ball is much smaller. B.H.S. guys can often be seen doing this activity in the halls of C building or outside A building on sunny days.

Hackey originated in California where the hackey sack rules were created. The most important rules are to never self-sack, never hand-sack, and to never say, "Sorry." Self-hack means to start the hackey sack yourself; instead the player must pass the multi-colored sack off before playing. Hand-hack means to touch the hackey sack with a hand while it is in play. A player should never say sorry because if he said this for every mistake, he would be saying "Sorry" all the time. If one of these rules is broken, the next rule is to hit that player with the sack. Of course, this starts fights and makes enemies, so only a few people still follow that rule.

A group of hackey sackers playing together makes a hackey circle. A hackey circle consists of two or more people, usually though not exclusively males.

Hackey sacks come in many varieties such as the original pigskin two-panel, the fluorescent pigskin two-panel, the cowhide eight panel, and the cowhide two-panel. Of course, all of these come in different colors.

Hackey sack has spread rapidly in Vermont. Originally seen being played by soccer players, many young people now enjoy the sport.

Library Rebels? An Investigation

Recently there have been scattered reports of acts of rebellion in our B.H.S. library. The Oread was interested in this phenomena so we sent our undercover reporter to find out the whole story. After months of investigation, we are now able to tell all. Names used in this article are fictitious, but they do represent true members of the classes of '85 and '86.

Daily observations were established and small acts of rebellion were observed. A student walked out the in door! Another student pretended to be studying the contents of the display case, then, when the librarian was looking away, he slipped under the entry bar and escaped into the hall crowd! Yet another student was observed surreptitiously hanging hand-lettered satirical posters. Library authority figures are constantly bombarded with questions about obvious and inane matters. Even though this is normal behavior for high school students, it seems that all this action is actually directed at this one area of the school — the library.

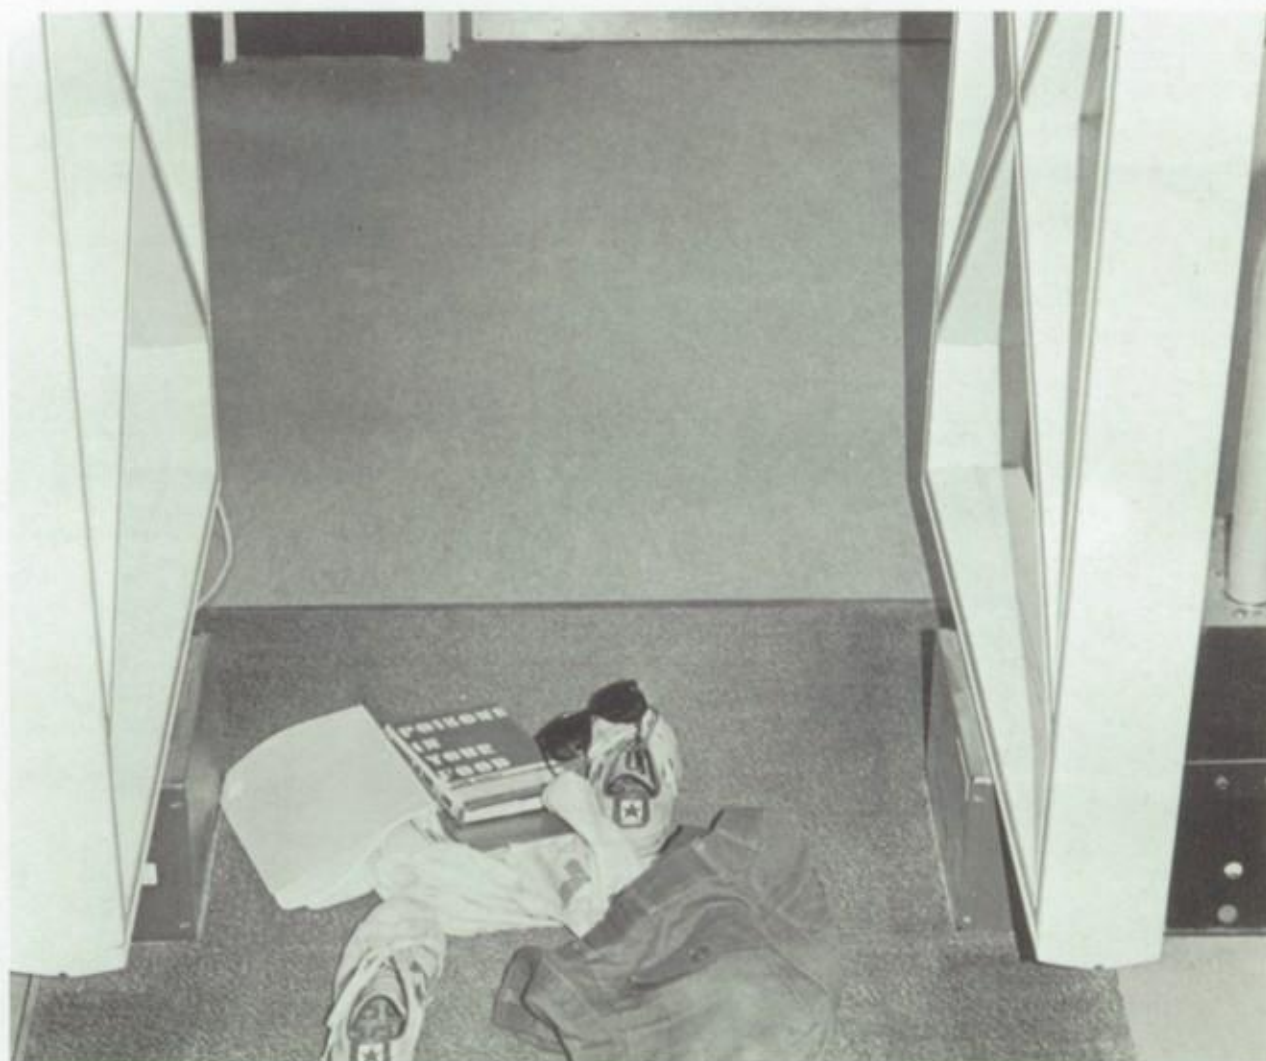

For example, two students who we shall call Robert Fripp and Brian Eno refuse to walk through the book detector. They believe that the rays can cause sterility, or in extreme cases, cause the victims' future offspring to start stamping numbers in books. They have no proof of the validity of this belief, but they also have no proof that it is not true. Often, during busy times of the day, students are forced to go through this infernal machine. Also, it may be true that a student who was trying to escape with an unstamped block of wood which looked much like a book was "zapped" by the machine. (See the amazing picture below obtained by the Oread reporter at the Burlington Square parking garage from an unnamed source.)

It is further rumored that some of the rebellion has turned into protest organizations. One such alleged organization, the Library Antagonists League, headed by Jim Q. Oldell, has as its basic creed, "An antagonist's say ruins a librarian's day." Another organization, the Junior Library Anarchists, or JLA, is headed by Jim Larebil. This group is small, we think, with no precise count of membership. Other rumored organizations include SFFJ (Students for Financial Justice), the Library Freedom Fighters, and Liberals Against Librarians. It is assumed that all these groups have formed this year, but little is known about them.

Whether one believes that there is a small revolution going on or that it is all unfounded rumors, one must admit that something strange is happening in B building. It is the opinion of this reporter that there should be a full investigation into the whole matter.

"The rays used can cause sterility or cause the victims' offspring to stamp books"

He Oughta Be in Pictures!

C'mon, admit it! The only reason you subscribe to Newsweek is so you can check out all the latest pictures of him. You know that toll free number by heart (800-453-9000) and not a single brochure has been produced that you haven't had sent exclusively to your house.

He's the object of locker room pin-ups and lunch time conversation — yes, he's our Soloflex Man. Unnamed, unattached (at least in our minds) and truly unforgettable, he ranks as the most sought after and unattainable man at B.H.S. And why? He merely sits on a machine flexing his muscles . . . a clear case of exploitation (or is that called temptation?). For all we know, he might have a high, squeaky voice or his idea of a romantic evening might be watching reruns of the Independent Network News. Then what?

Keep on subscribing to Newsweek!

Double Vision: Thoughts on Being a BHS Twin

First, let's answer the questions people always ask. No, we don't dress the same; yes, we have different personalities; yes, people compare us (and, we all hate it!). Basically being twins isn't a big deal to us, although it sometimes has its unique side.

Probably the first thing you learn as a twin is how to tune your ears into listening for two names. Second, you learn to deal with taking the blame on occasion for your other half. Finally, and most importantly, you develop your own, individual way to handle these situations.

There are basically two ways to respond when someone calls the wrong name — either ignore it and answer anyway or correct the confused (and probably embarrassed) person. The majority of twins at B.H.S. usually chose the latter, making one feel slightly stupid for not telling them apart. As for taking the blame for each other, all twins would advise teachers to make sure whom they are chasing before they actually try to nab a twin for some infraction of the rules. However, it is times like these that certain abilities-to-confuse prove to be handy.

Boy-girl twins such as the Bernsteins, obviously can't identify with these problems, but there are a few characteristics that seemed to be true of all twins. Most of us feel closer to each other than to our other siblings. All of us were dressed alike when we were young. We all have interesting stories to tell. Sharon and Karen Leggett woke up one morning and realized they'd had the same dream. Once, one of the Robair twins was bitten by a dog and her sister felt it. Christy and Michelle North switched classes for a while in elementary school until someone finally noticed.

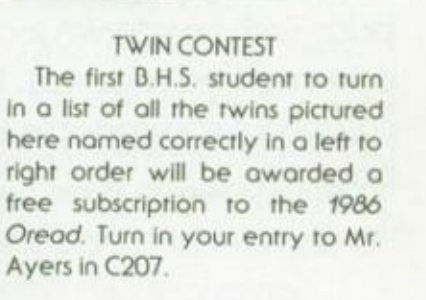

But there is definitely a bad side to being a twin. Terms like "your other half" and "your better half" top the list, along with people who compare the pair, looking for little details like a Hocus-Focus picture in the Sunday comics. Then there are the unintentional putdowns: "Oh, that one must be the smart one," or "How come he runs faster than you? I thought you were the same." Nobody can understand the plague of comparison when someone says, "I'm disappointed in you. Your twin got an 'A' on this paper."

Fifty percent of the B.H.S. twins would change their situation in a minute if they could ("You get gyped on your birthday!") while the other half — no pun intended — would remain as they were born.

Finally, do all twins a favor — stop assuming that if you see one of us alone that we always know where the other guy is!

Football Players Gain Respect

After a disappointing 1983 season, the Burlington High School football team, headed by veteran coach Bob Yates, rallied together and gained respect with a healthy 4 - 5 record in the fall of 1984. The high points of the season were the games against the Essex Hornets and cross town rival Rice Little Indians. Even with a 28 to 20 loss against the Hornets, the team outgained Essex in 400 to 215 yards. Defeating the Rice team 28 to 14 with running back Brian Pernelos' touchdown was the most rewarding game of the season. This victory gave the Seahorses bragging rights for the "City Championship."

The Burlington Seahorses were led by a strong senior lineup. Led by Co-captains Todd Rainville and Chris Walker, the seniors were M.V.P. Bill Mahoney, Coaches' Award recipient Jamie "Vinnie" Clements, Coaches' M.V.P. Brian Pernelos, Duane Campbell, Gary Dupont, Chris "Steroid" Graeter, Kevin Hatin, Steve Mount, Glen Neary, Fred Rutherford, and George Trieb. Through the efforts of Coach Bob Yates who was assisted by Line Coach Joe Sleeman and Ends Coach Stan Jones, the team ended with a respectable 4 - 5 record. Good luck to next year's team.

Strong Individuals Bring Team Success

Consistency up front typified the 1984 Cross Country running team. With the front running duo of Jamey McNamara and Bill Carpenter finishing one, two in ten out of fourteen races, the team finished with an overall 108 and 17 record. The season was highlighted by a 2nd in Guilderland, New York, 2nd in the Burlington Invitational, 2nd in the Kingdom Cup, 2nd in States, and 4th in New Englands.

Though this record contained a few more second places than we would have liked, it was still more than respectable. This was made possible by the tremendous individual performances of B.H.S. runners during the season. McNamara won eight races, most importantly the Division I Individual State Championship. Carpenter won the Burlington Invitational and the District Meet. His fourth place finish in the New Englands was the best by any Vermonter. Awards went to Sean McAuliffe (Coach's Award) and McNamara (M.V.P.) and Carpenter (Special recognition of his overall performance). Junior George Wolters who came on strong at the end of the season shared the Most Improved Runner award with sophomore Eric Steele.

Girls' X-C Team: A Winning Tradition

The 1984 girls' cross country team had a winning season with victories in the Essex Invitational, district championships, and a second place finish in the state meet. The team also ran to a respectable fourth place in the New England meet, the top finishing team from Vermont.

The girls were led by M.V.P. and Co-captain Amy Halverson who cinched victories in the Burlington and Essex Invitionals and placed fifth in the state meet. She was followed closely all year by Eve Niquette and Co-captain Maria Lee. The varsity squad was completed by Karyn Cooke, Kim Niquette, and freshmen Andrea Dowhan and Bridget Lee.

All in all, the team had a good year. The highlight was when we came back from our second place finish in the state meet to defeat the state champs in the New England qualifier and then went on to defeat them again in New Englands. The low of the year was when our entire J.V. team got hit by a car while the team was out on a run. Our J.V. team consisted of freshman Sarah Woodard, who came back strong from her injury to place fifth in the district meet.

The team will not be losing any runners, thus 1985 should be a strong season.

Soccer Team Plagued By Frustration

The 1984 soccer season was one of frustration. Before the season had started, the team was hopeful of a winning record and a trip to the playoffs, but when the dust settled, our hopes had not been fulfilled. The season started on a good note by tying arch rival Essex 3 - 3 on David Stephany's overtime goal. Following that game, the team suffered seven straight defeats, and our already bad attitude began to worsen. The crusher in this losing streak was a 3 - 0 loss to Middlebury. Though this was our most depressing loss, the bus ride home changed our attitudes and started us on our winning way. We finally won our first game, 2 - 1, over crosstown rival, Rice. Then came the highlight of the season - a victory over Milton, 3 - 2, with Chien Nguyen scoring all three goals. This was the first time Burlington had beaten Milton in some seventeen games. We followed this with two more victories against North Country and Rice. Our record now was 4 - 7 - 1 and we were playing as well as we had earlier expected. After defeating Missisquoi, we needed a win or a tie against South Burlington (the eventual State Champs) to make the playoff. We were impressive in defeat as we went down 2 - 0. This ended our season at 5 - 8 - 1.

Graduating seniors are Sean O'Brien (Co-M.V.P., All-State), Terry McGregor (Co-M.V.P.), Stuart Deliduka (Co-Coach's Award), Alan Baker (Co-Coach's Award), David Stephany, Geoff Adams, and James Behnke. Many thanks to Coach Dave Bahrenburg and best wishes to the team in 1985.

Girls' Soccer Scores Great Improvements

The fall 1984 girls' soccer team started the season with a bang with a mid-season record of 6 - 1. This was a vast improvement over last year's final record of 2 - 9 - 2. Our two victories over Rice Memorial High, leaving us with a 7 - 6 - 2 record, enabled us to qualify for the quarterfinal game against rival Essex. The Hornets beat us 3 - 1 in an exciting game and then went on to become co-champions with C.V.U. All in all, it was an exciting and rewarding season.

Coach Fran Demasi awarded our freshman goalie, Sue Brady, with the Coach's Award. Senior Kristie Smith received the award as Most Valuable Player.

Girls Strengthen As Season Progresses

Although the 1984 field hockey team had a slow start, we picked up our speed, eventually arriving at the play-offs. Our goal at the beginning of the season was to make it to playoffs, and with our talented team and coach, we succeeded. Our strong effort as a team was a great experience for us all.

The awesome forward line was a great plus for the team. This consisted of high scorer Margaret Limoge, Erin Kilpatrick, Dawn Allard, Lara Heath, Barb Joyal, and Lori McKenzie. Our offense line was also tough. Freshman Tina Calhoun added much strength while Jennifer Spafford, Ellen Hayford, and Cindy Lasker added spirit to compensate for their injuries.

Our defense was very strong this year with Co-captains Shelley Reno (Coach's Award) and M.V.P. Heather Jenkins protecting the net, with the help of underclassmen Carolyn McLaurin, Anais Langley, and Laura Sharp. Senior Paula Ackel and returning goalie Kristin Desautel held the back field together.

Seahorses Take State Championship

The 1984-85 hockey season was rather successful with an overall record of 20-3-0. After capturing the first seed in the league, the Seahorses looked toward the playoffs with visions of winning the title. B.H.S. coasted past So. Burlington, 8-0, and ground Missisquoi, 6-2. But, the players knew that Spaulding would be a rude awakening. The predictions were accurate as the Crimson Tide nearly washed up the Seahorses in the first period. Thanks to the outstanding goal tending of senior Glen Neary, B.H.S. only trailed by one goal after the first period.

The team hit the locker room with the agony of defeat heading our way. We knew there was only one half an hour left in the season to pull it together. The Seahorses did just that by scoring three goals in the last two periods and winning the State Championship for the first time in 13 years. Brad Bessette, Rich Marchessault, and Al Marchessault each added two assists.

The season was a very satisfying one as we worked together for our success. Many thanks are due to Coach Ted Childs for his efforts in keeping us together as a working team.

Awards went to Glen Neary as Most Valuable Player, Brad Bessette as Most Improved Player, and to Steve Cobb as recipient of the Coach's Award.

Seahorse Skiers Make District Race

The 1985 Boys' Nordic Ski Team had a difficult but encouraging season. B.H.S. had to compete against the strongest teams in the state in almost every meet. This, along with lack of depth and inexperience resulted in few wins. Despite the difficulties faced in the regular season, the team put together its finest performances in the Districts and States. B.H.S. qualified for the State Meet with a 5th place finish, in a field of fifteen, in the district race. Out of the fourteen teams that competed in the state meet, Burlington placed 7th. Tri-captain and M.V.P. Eugene Martin established himself as one of the strongest skiers in the state with a Vermont record of 560 - 3. Thanks go to Coaches Bob Atchinson and Jeff Bittner.

The Boys' Alpine Ski Team rebounded from bad luck in the 1984 season and proved themselves to be a major skiing power in Vermont high school racing. However, some of the races could not overcome the law of gravity in the District Meet, and the team failed to qualify for the State Meet. The whole team was especially strong and great depth enabled the team to place strongly in earlier meets. Fine races were had by Jamie Clements, Alex Halpern, Erich Jonas, and Carl Tetzlaff. Many thanks to Coach Dick Painter and Assistant Coach Andy Bickford.

Small Girls' Teams Ski to Mixed Results

The girls' Nordic ski team, though small, improved and worked hard. Perhaps one of the best parts of this year was the closeness we reached because of our size. We were always playing musical chairs in terms of placing. Kim Niquette (M.V.P.) displayed excellent consistency and had both excellent state and district meet finishes. Eve Niquette, number two for B.H.S., had a very strong season and was continually improving. Captain Jen Spafford (Coaches' Award) had her good days. Linda Black had an awesome finish at districts, finishing first for Burlington and leading us to a qualification for states. Katya Cooke, Bridget Lee, and Sylvia Cannizzaro improved a great deal and consistently provided needed depth. Many thanks to new coaches Jeff Bittner and Bob Atchinson.

The girls' Alpine team had a short and sad season. Since there were was a lack of girls, we never qualified at the meets. We managed to keep our spirits up and have fun. The team was led by Maria Pichler (Captain and M.V.P.), Britt Jacobson, and Jenn Dyer. Special thanks to the boys' team for bearing with us and to Coaches Painter and Bickford for their time and support.

Seahorses Take Metro Championship

Winning the Metro Conference was the highlight of the basketball season of '84-'85. Even though the team lost the semi-finals to B.F.A., the team spotted an impressive record of 16 wins and 7 losses.

The success of the season depended on the leadership of the seven seniors. The team leaned on the individual abilities of each: George Trieb (M.V.P.) for his excellent rebounding; John Danehey for his tough defense and good shooting; Fred Rutherford for his intimidation; Chris Walker and Brian Rudnick for their great outside shooting; Sean O'Brien for his ability to break any press with his dribbling; and Todd Rainville for his tenacious defense and enthusiasm. In addition, Trieb and Rutherford led the team in scoring with double figured averages.

The season began poorly with a 1-3 record and Rudnick and O'Brien on the bench with sprained ankles. Things began to look up when the team went on to win the next three games and to defeat Rice. The next game was a loss to St. Johnsbury, which led into a winning streak of ten games. In winning the last game over Essex, the Seahorses won the Metro Conference. We then went into the tournament seeded fourth. B.H.S. won the first two games against Brattleboro and Essex, but we were stopped short of the championship by B.F.A. (55-53) in the closing seconds.

Girls' Team Achieves League Playoffs

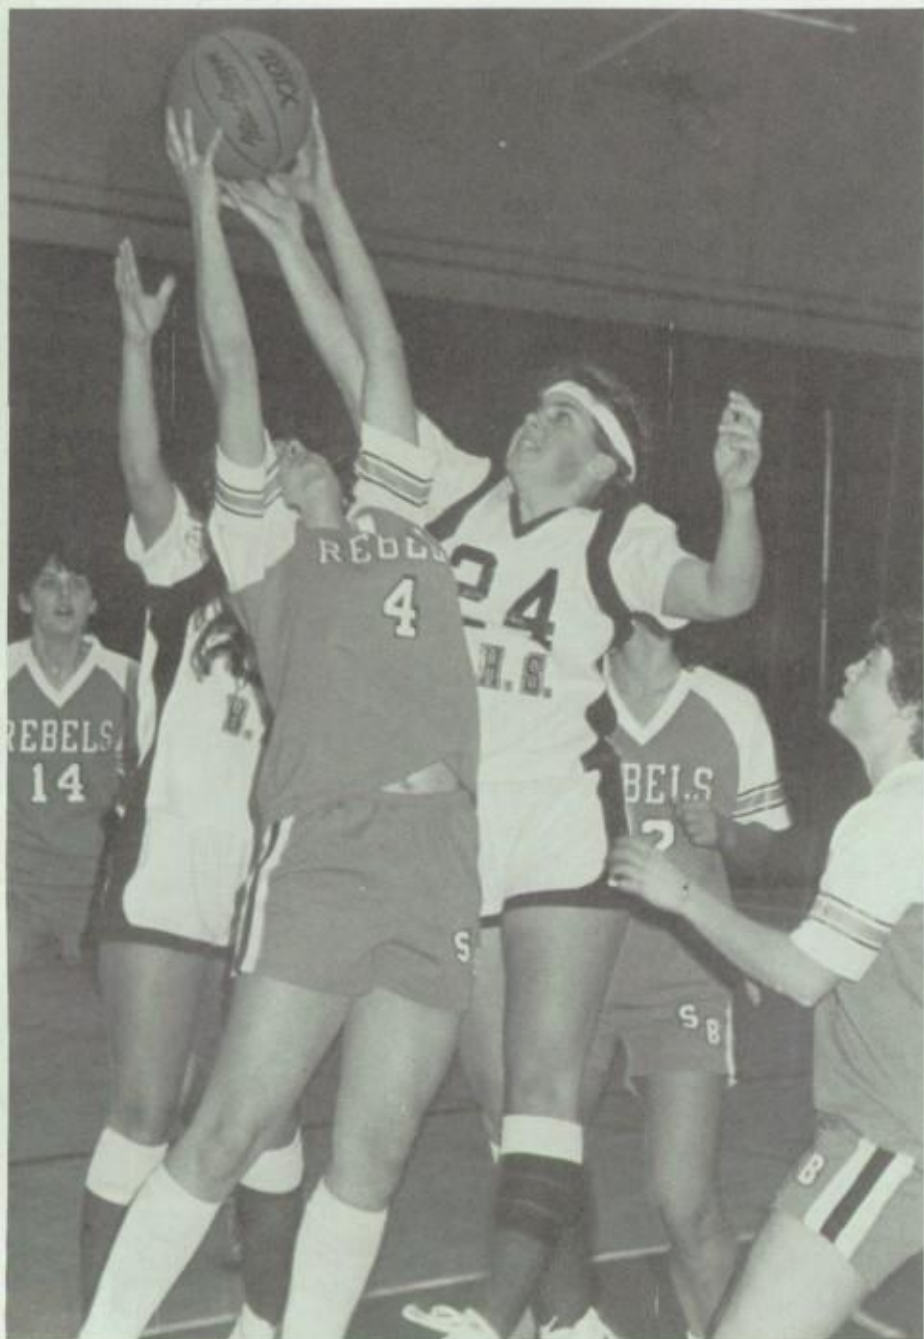

The 1984-85 girls' basketball team completed a very successful season. Our record of 8-12 was a vast improvement over last year. We shot into the season with a big bang, and our record was 6-4 by mid-season. Then we dragged through the lengthy second half, only winning one of the next nine games. Finally, and with much relief, we crushed Colchester in our last game of the season. This qualified us for the playoffs.

The away North Country game was our sweetest victory of the season. Even after the long three hour ride, we pulled through on the court and had one of the best games of the season with a score of 39-34. It was definitely an important victory to us and it lifted our spirits greatly.

We finally made the playoffs this year, the first time in ten years. We met Springfield in their gym for an exciting but disappointing game. Unfortunately we lost, 48-59.

Coach Bob Pecor was satisfied with the season. He was always there on and off the court, and we'd all like to thank him. Seniors graduating are M.V.P. Erin Rieley and Kathy McHenry.

Inexperienced Team Rebuilds Strength

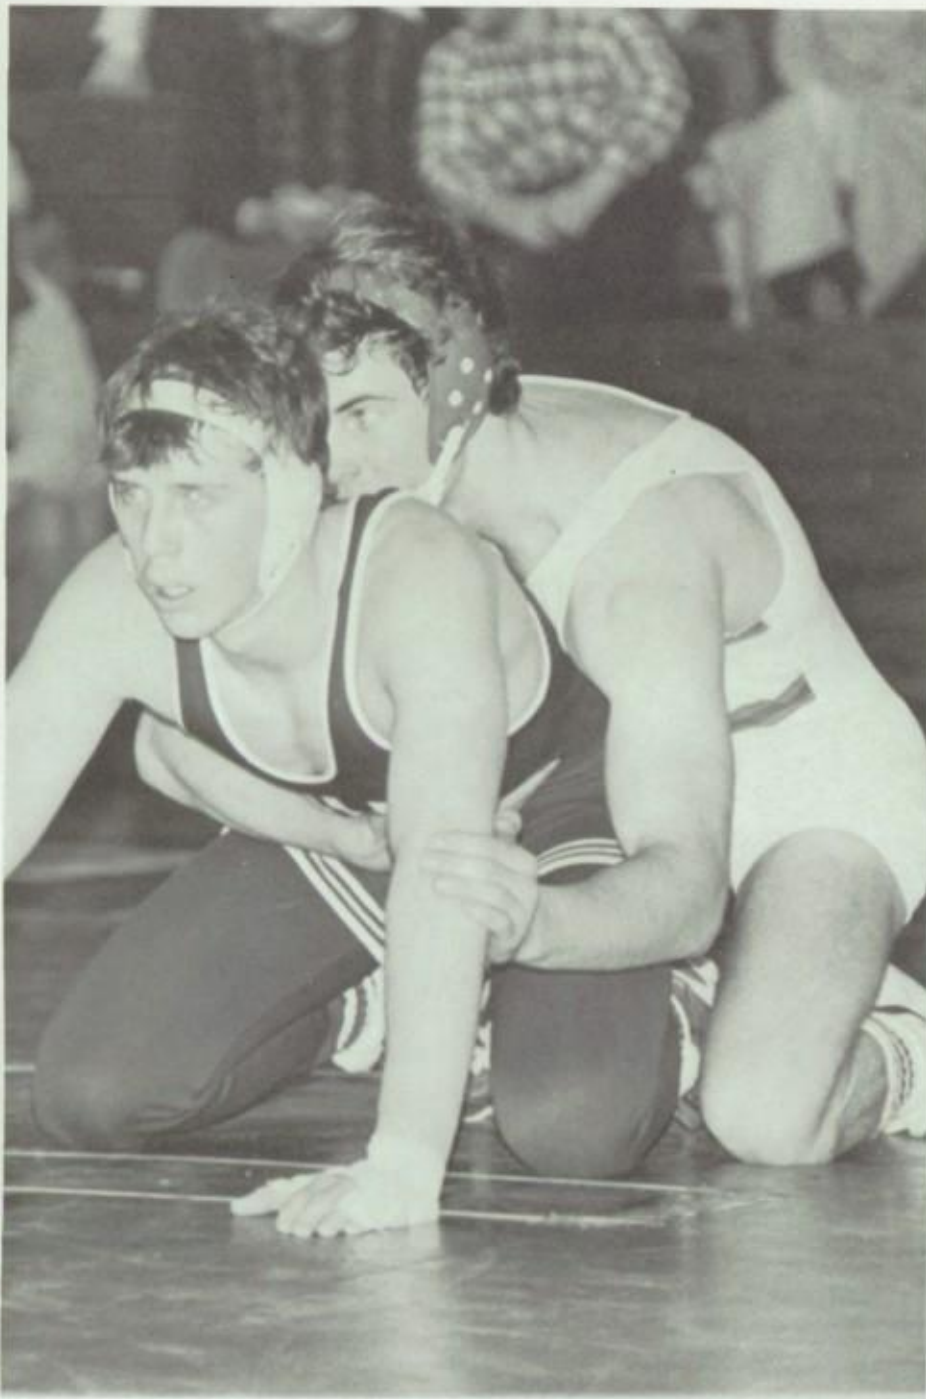

The 1984-85 B.H.S. gymnastic season can be viewed as a building season. The squad consisted of sixteen gymnasts, three of whom were returning members. Under the coaching of B.H.S. graduate, Karen Smith, the young and inexperienced team began its season scoring in the 75-78 point range. Later as the season progressed, individuals became stronger and more confident with their performances. The team scores continued to rise and improve with each meet. The team reached 92 points during the Montpelier meet and 90 points competing against South Burlington. The B.H.S. team ended the season with a record of 3-7.

Although the B.H.S. gymnastic team did not qualify for the State Gymnastic Meet, Senior Captain Kristie Smith qualified as an individual performer. Kristie competed as an all-around, performing on the floor exercise, balance beam, uneven bars, and vaulting.

Young Wrestlers' Work Pays Off

The start of this year's wrestling season was slow, but first year coach Jim Weaver remained dedicated. With his hard work, we shaped up and came together as a team. We then ended the season well for a team so young. Highlights of our season were the Mt. Mansfield tourney where we placed fourth and the North Country tournament where we took a third.

Captain Kevin Hatin (M.V.P.) managed to place at least second in all tournaments, including states. He also took a fourth at New Englands. Senior Bob Chagnon placed fourth in states. Among the strong underclassmen were sophomore Jim Jimmo, who placed second in states, Scott Senna, State J.V. Champion, and sophomore Darren Tebeau who received the Most Improved Award. Junior Co-captain Dave Brooks placed fifth in states after a fine consolation final match.

The team would like to say thanks to Coach Jim Weaver for his hard work, time, and effort that brought our novice team a respectable final record of 6-8.

Fall/Winter Squads Spread Enthusiasm

Cheerleaders...who else can keep a crowd yelling at the top of its lungs? Who also can keep our teams going when the spirit begins to weaken? No one, but us. There were times when we even surprised ourselves.

The football squad, under the coaching of Sue Luck, saw the return of nine veterans: Wendi LaBonte, Kelly St. Louis, Marilyn Laba, Cheryl McKenzie, Michele Fitzgerald, Laura Towne, Maria Mallette, and the co-captains Eleanor DeLisa (M.V.P.) and Rachel O'Brien (Coach's Award). To make the squad complete, we added J.V. veteran Shelly English.

Basketball season saw a minor change. With a new coach, Sarah Lynch-Bessette, and a new member, Francine O'Brien, we continued to defend our status as one of the best squads in the state. The three year stint of six seniors ended with the fulfillment of a dream. Veterans DeLisa (M.V.P.), LaBonte (Coach's Award), O'Brien (Coach's Award), Laba, McKenzie, and Fitzgerald were able to cheer our last game at Patrick Gym in front of 4,000 spectators as the basketball team contended for the state championship.

Over the past four years we've worked hard. We practiced eight months out of the year. It took a lot of hard work and dedication, and the memories will always be with us.

Track Team Shows Steady Improvements

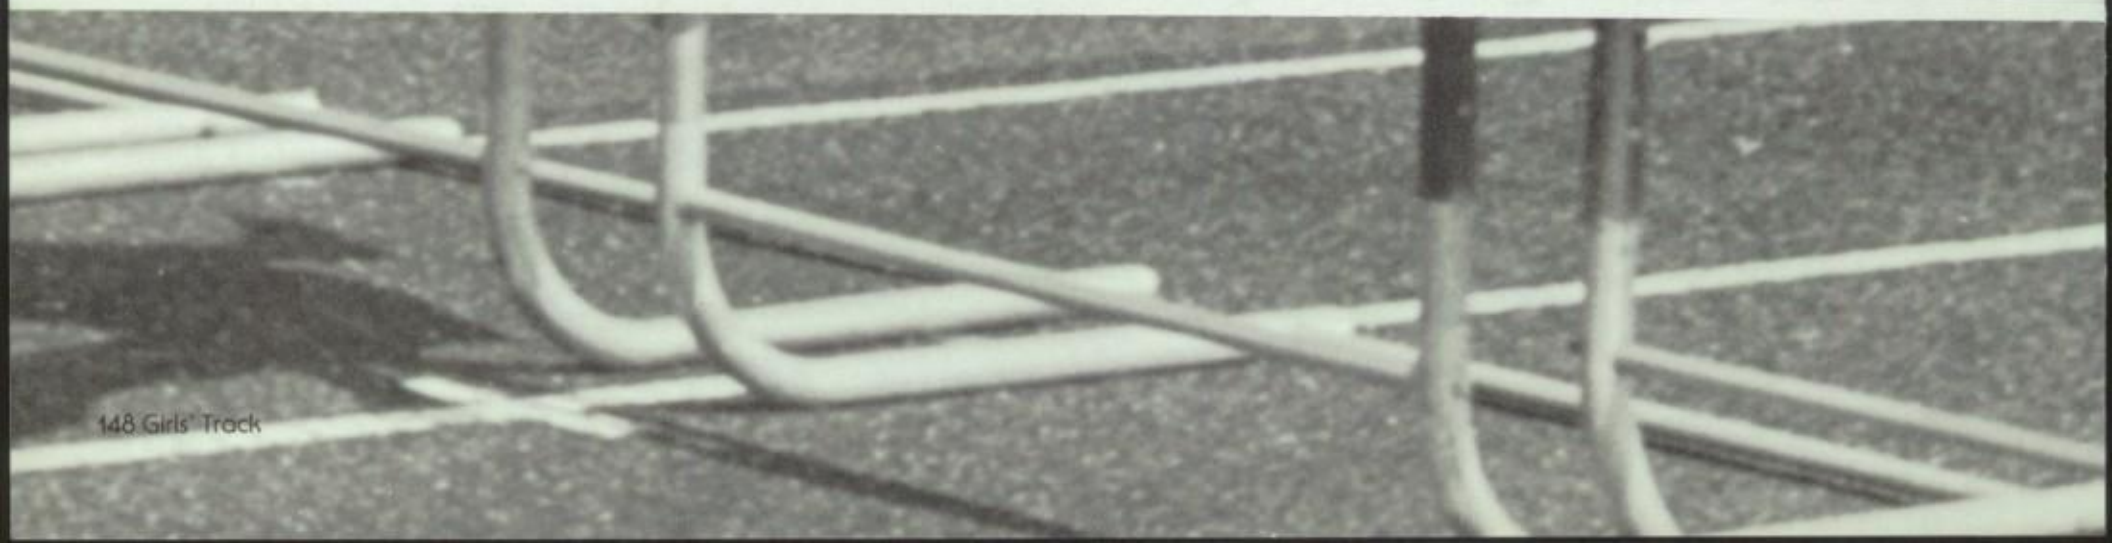

The B.H.S. boys' track team showed much improvement over last year's mediocre performance. The team had difficulty with the regular season meets because many key individuals were unable to participate. The Seahorses became a very strong team in the big meets with a full team. The team's major accomplishments were a second in the Burlington Invitational, a second in the District Meet, and a tie for 3rd in the State Meet. The success of the team was based on the strength of its individuals. Major contributors to the team's success were captain Jamey McNamara (Coaches' Award, State Champ-3000m.), captain Eugene Martin (M.V.P.), captain Jamie Clements, sophomore Steve Yates (state record holder and N.E. discus champ), Bill Carpenter (3000m. runner up), and Dave Begnoche. Many thanks to coaches John Mazuzan and Tony Orzach for their many hours of dedication and commitment to the team. Good luck to all the graduation seniors and to next year's team.

Girls' Track Team Second in State

The girls' track team, despite the fact that for two meets we were working with only half a team, had an awesome season! Many freshmen turned out this year and were led by five seniors: Andrea Farina, Emily Joffe, Kristin Smith, Maria Erb, and Heidi Gnaedinger. Our new coaches were Bob Murray, Vickie Johnson, and Karen Geremia. By the time we were half way through the season, we knew we had a shot at doing well as a team.

Throughout the season, there were many outstanding accomplishments. Donna Gerace and Gretchen Wagner made every 400 runner afraid to run with them. Gnaedinger came in second in Districts in the 300 hurdles. The team came in second in our district meet, and the 4x400 relay team won despite a huge downpour in the middle of the race.

Our showing at the Vermont State Meet was our best since 1973. Gerace was a state champ in the 400; the 4x400 team was also state champs led on by Jennifer Swartout, Amy Halverson, Wagner, and Gerace. The 4x100 relay team consisting of Gnaedinger, Smith, Christy Buchanan, and Maria Erb ran the fastest time in four years. We closed the season with the title "Vermont State Runners Up." Heidi Gnaedinger received the M.V.P. Award and the Coaches' Award went to Maria Erb.

Baseball Players Go To Quarterfinals

The 1985 boys' baseball team took an excellent 15-1 record into the playoffs, but they were upset in the quarterfinals by Brattleboro, 4-1. Despite a tough opening season loss to the South Burlington Rebels, the hard hitting Seahorses rebounded to win fifteen in a row on the strong performances of player of the year, Rich Rainer.

At the beginning of the season, veteran coach Jim Billings told the team to expect a rebuilding year due to the loss of assistant coach Bove and several key players, but as it turned out, Coach Andy Barlow filled in nicely and the returning players enabled the Seahorses to dominate the Metro Conference once again. Graduating from the 1985 team will be M.V.P. Brian Rudnick, All North DH Bill Mahoney, All Star pitcher Brian Pornelos, Terry McGregor, Mike Gay, Duane Campbell, and Dale Ledoux.

Softball Players Score to Success

The 1985 softball season was the best season the Burlington girls have had in many years. The record was 5-10, one game away from the playoffs. With the determination and support from Coach Moe Walsh and the good attitudes and cooperation from the players, we built a good team both defensively and at the bat. With the loss of just three seniors - Lynn Oldfield, Maria Mallette, Ellen Hayford - the softball team is sure to be even better in the years to come. So, good luck, girls. Playoffs are just around the corner.

Young Team Posts Successful Season

The 1985 boys' tennis season was one of both success and frustration. Playing without key members and a set lineup for much of the season, the team suffered an early blowout and three heartbreaking 4-3 losses. The team did end up with five victories.

After getting a late start with a new coach, the team looked a little rusty at the beginning of the season, but much credit must go to both the team and Coach Frank Babbott for holding together and eventually advancing to the state semi-finals. After a tough 4-3 victory over Rutland in the quarterfinals, the team fell to C.V.U., 5-2, with the number 1 and 6 players missing.

Six juniors will return next year, including top player Jeff Swiatek, consistent singles players Rich Baker (#3) and Chris Dowhan (#4) and Chip Hart. The only loss to graduation was first year player David Stephany.

Girls' Tennis Team Wins Seven Matches

The girls' tennis team showed their determination and good sportsmanship during the 1985 season. The schedule was busy and tiresome. Nevertheless, the team came out with seven wins and four losses. The team will lose three members this year. They are number seven Erin Rieley, number three Amy Flur, and number one Roxann Russell. The highlight of the season was Russell's victory over South Burlington's number one player. The M.V.P. and Coach's Award were shared by Russell and freshman Tina Calhoun. Calhoun had an outstanding record of 9-2 at the number four position. Many thanks are in order to Coach Rhonda Colvard and all team members for an interesting and fun season.

Frustration For The B.H.S. Golfers

The 1985 golf team posted a 6-11-2 record over the course of a very frustrating spring. Inconsistency plagued the team throughout the season. Unexpectedly strong individual performances by the first four players kept B.H.S. respectable. Number one player Steve Gretkowski was the sole model of consistency. Freshman Parker Minahan was a surprise, and Glen Neary and Pat Brown's improvements were astounding. Many thanks to Coach Al Trono for his guidance and dedication, and good luck to next year's team.

"Up in Lights," the 1985 Oread, Volume 85 of the Burlington, Vermont, High School yearbook, was printed by the Taylor Publishing Company in Dallas, Texas and Malvern, Pennsylvania, employing offset lithography. The 224 page book had a press run of 580 copies. Each student paid $15 for the yearbook; each book cost approximately $21 to print.

The vinyl cover, #452 dark blue, was silkscreened with a white stage light design and thermoscreened with the graduated dot pattern light beam. The four-color endsheet was photographed at the Flynn Theater on Main Street, Burlington, on November 19, 1984. The endsheet photos were color corrected and processed at Vivid Color Labs in Winooski, Vermont.

All special headlines were printed in 24 point lower case Broadway type. All primary headlines were printed in 24 point Serif Gothic; all body copy was set in 10 point Serif Gothic. Underclass names and captions were set in 8 point Serif Gothic. Names of all seniors were set in 14 point Serif Gothic Bold.

The first fifteen pages of the book employed for special effect 60% process red and 2 point ruled lines. Color pictures were reproduced using a four color laser process. The book was printed on 80 lb. glossy stock in 100% black ink.

The staff worked on a two deadline schedule. The first 67 pages were submitted before April 1, 1985. The remaining 157 pages were submitted on June 30, 1985.

All original artwork in the book was done by senior James Newell. The cover design, the stage lights on page 1 and 224, and the senior spotlights were drawn free hand. Other artwork on all other pages used Chartpak 3 point line, 3 point 90 degree corners, and dot tape.
